"Visualizing Haiti in U.S. Culture, 1910-1950" Lindsay J. Twa, 2017-07-05. From the late 1910s through the 1950s, particularly the Caribbean nation of Haiti, drew the attention and imaginations of many key U.S. artists, yet curiously, while significant studies have been published on Haiti's history and inter-American exchanges, none analyze visual representations with any depth. The author calls not only on the methodologies of art history but also on the interdisciplinary eye of visual culture studies, anthropology, literary theory, and tourism studies to examine the fine arts in relation to popular arts, media, social beliefs, and institutional structures. Twa emphasizes close visual readings of photographs, illustrations, paintings, and theatre. Extensive textual and archival research also supports her visual analysis, such as scrutinizing the personal papers of this study's artists, writers, and intellectuals. Among the literary and artistic luminaries of the twentieth century that Twa includes in her discussion are Richmond Barthé, Eldzier Cortor, Aaron Douglas, Katherine Dunham, Langston Hughes, Zora Neale Hurston, Alexander King, Jacob Lawrence, James Weldon Johnson, Lo Mailou Jones, Eugene O'Neill, and William Edouard Scott. Twa argues that their choice of Haiti as subject matter was a highly charged decision by these American artists to use their artwork to engage racial, social, and political issues.

Racing the Great White Way Katie N. Johnson, 2023-07-19. The early drama of Eugene O'Neill with its emphasis on racial themes and conflicts opened up extraordinary opportunities for Black performers to challenge racist structures in modern theater and cinema. By adapting O'Neill's dramatic writing, changing scripts to omit offensive epithets, inserting African American music and dance, or including citations of Black internationalism, theater artists of color have used O'Neill's texts to raze barriers in American and transatlantic theater. Challenging the widely accepted idea that Broadway was the white hot creative engine of U S theater during the early 20th century author Katie N Johnson reveals a far more complex system of exchanges between the Broadway establishment and a vibrant Black theater scene in New York and beyond to chart a new history of American and transnational theater In spite of their dichotomous and at times problematic representation of Blackness O'Neill's plays such as The Emperor Jones and All God's Children Got Wings make ideal case studies because of the way these works stimulated traffic between Broadway and Harlem and between white and Black America These investigations of O'Neill and Broadway productions are enriched by the vibrant transnational exchange found in early to mid 20th century artistic production Anchored in archival research Racing the Great White Way recovers not only vital lost performance histories but also the layered contexts for performing bodies across the Black Atlantic and the Circum Atlantic

Lubasch, 2012-10-18 Paul Robeson was a towering figure in American culture conquering many disparate venues from football and film to law to Shakespeare An extraordinary athlete scholar actor singer Robeson also became a crusader for human rights And though he was admired by many his controversial support of the Soviet Union during the Cold War and the era of McCarthyism led to ostracism and his declining health In Robeson An American Ballad Arnold H Lubasch chronicles the remarkable life of this twentieth century original In this concise and readable account Lubasch a New York Times veteran for almost 40 years reports on Robeson's life story more accurately and clearly than any previous books In addition to detailing the highs and lows of Robeson's life and career Lubasch offers several personal anecdotes about this American icon and includes commentary on the 100th anniversary celebration of Robeson's birth This engaging work will be of interest to virtually everyone but especially to scholars and students of U S and African American history and culture The Theatre of Eugene O'Neill Kurt Eisen, 2017-11-16 Named a Choice Outstanding Academic Title of the Year 2018 The Theatre of Eugene O'Neill offers a new comprehensive overview of O'Neill's career and plays in the context of the American theatre Organised thematically it considers his modernist intervention in the theatre offers readers detailed analysis of the plays and assesses the recent resurgence in his reputation and new approaches to staging his work It includes a study of all his major plays The Emperor Jones The Hairy Ape The Iceman Cometh Long Day's Journey Into Night A Moon for the Misbegotten and Desire Under the Elms besides numerous other full length and one act dramas Eugene O'Neill is generally credited with inventing modern American drama in a time of cultural ferment and lively artistic and intellectual change Yet O'Neill's theatrical instincts were always shaped by American stage traditions that were inextricable from his sense of himself and his own national culture This study shows that his theatrical modernism represents not so much a break from these traditions as a reinvention of their scope and significance in the context of international stage modernism offering an image of national culture and character that opens new possibilities for the stage while remaining rooted in its past Kurt Eisen traces O'Neill's modernism throughout the dramatist's work his attempts to break from the themes plots and moral conventions of the traditional melodramatic theatre his experiments in stagecraft and theme and their connection to traditional theatre and his European modernist contemporaries the turn toward direct and indirect self representation and his critique of the family and of American pipe dreams and the allure of success The volume additionally features four contributed essays providing further critical perspectives on O'Neill's work alongside a chronology of the writer's life and times
