 the relationship How for example might a person s criminal activity adversely affect their health or their risk of exposure to among traditional criminal justice populations As well as exploring these urgent issues this anthology features a wealth of remarkable interdisciplinary contributions that see public health researchers focusing on crime while criminologists attend to public health issues The papers provide empirical data tracking for example the repercussions on public health of a fear of crime among residents of high crime neighborhoods and the correlations between HIV status and outcomes and an individual public health sectors might work together on the problems common to both this collection breaks new ground by combining
