National Parks And Rural Development Practice And Policy In The United States:

National Parks and Rural Development Gary E. Machlis, Donald Field, 2000-09 Protecting land in parks is often seen as coming at the expense of rural economic development Yet recent events such as the contentious debate over the development of Canyon Forest Village on the south rim of the Grand Canyon suggest just the opposite healthy natural systems can be enormously valuable to rural economies National Parks and Rural Development offers a thorough examination of the interdependent roles of national parks and the economies of rural communities in the United States Bringing together the thinking and views of economists historians sociologists recreation researchers and park managers the book considers how those roles can be most effectively managed as it offers a wide ranging review of history and important concepts in rural development and parks management five case studies of rural development near national parks that identify lessons learned principles applied mistakes committed and advances made personal essays from leaders in the parks management field For each section the editors offer introductory discussions that provide context and highlight key points The editors also provide a detailed conclusion which summarizes policy implications and presents specific recommendations for improving rural development and park management policies Case studies include Cape Cod National Seashore Alaskan parks and wilderness areas Yellowstone National Park the Grand Canyon and three parks in the Pacific Northwest Mt Rainier Olympic and North Cascades ational Parks and Rural Development is a unique synthesis and guide to solving conflicts between the needs of human communities and nature near federal lands It will be an important work for agency personnel nongovernmental organizations and students and scholars of rural economic development public policy environmental economics and related fields

Tourism and

National Parks Warwick Frost, C. Michael Hall, 2012-08-21 In 1872 Yellowstone was established as a National Park The name caught the public's imagination and by the close of the century other National Parks had been declared not only in the USA but also in Australia Canada and New Zealand Yet as it has spread the concept has evolved and diversified In the absence of any international controlling body individual countries have been free to adapt the concept for their own physical social and economic environments Some have established national parks to protect scenery others to protect ecosystems or wildlife Tourism has also been a fundamental component of the national parks concept from the beginning and predates ecological justifications for national park establishment though it has been closely related to landscape conservation rationales at the outset Approaches to tourism and visitor management have varied Some have stripped their parks of signs of human settlement while increasingly others are blending natural and cultural heritage and reflecting national identities This edited volume explores in detail the origins and multiple meanings of National Parks and their relationship to tourism in a variety of national contexts It consists of a series of introductory overview chapters followed by case study chapters from around the world including insights from the US Canada Australia UK Spain France Sweden Indonesia China and Southern Africa Taking a global comparative approach this book examines how and why national parks have spread and evolved how they have been fashioned and used and the integral role of tourism within national parks The volume's focus on the long standing connection between tourism and national parks and the changing concept of national parks over time and space give the book a distinct niche in the national parks and tourism literature The volume is expected to contribute not only to tourism and national park studies at the upper level undergraduate and graduate levels but also to courses in international and comparative environmental history conservation studies and outdoor recreation management

Restorative Redevelopment of Devastated Ecocultural Landscapes Robert L. France, 2016-04-19 A fusion of ecological restoration and sustainable development restorative redevelopment represents an emerging paradigm for remediating landscapes Rather than merely fixing the broken bits and pieces of nature restorative development advocates the reuse of devastated landscapes to improve the value and livability of a location for humans at the

The Price of Nuclear Power Stephanie A. Malin, 2015-05-21 Rising fossil fuel prices and concerns about greenhouse gas emissions are fostering a nuclear power renaissance and a revitalized uranium mining industry across the American West In The Price of Nuclear Power environmental sociologist Stephanie Malin offers an on the ground portrait of several uranium communities caught between the harmful legacy of previous mining booms and the potential promise of new economic development Using this context she examines how shifting notions of environmental justice inspire divergent views about nuclear power's sustainability and equally divisive forms of social activism Drawing on extensive fieldwork conducted in rural isolated towns such as Monticello Utah and Nucla and Naturita Colorado as well as in upscale communities like Telluride Colorado and incorporating interviews with community leaders environmental activists radiation regulators and mining executives Malin uncovers a fundamental paradox of the nuclear renaissance the communities most hurt by uranium's legacy such as high rates of cancers respiratory ailments and reproductive disorders were actually quick to support industry renewal She shows that many impoverished communities support mining not only because of the employment opportunities but also out of a personal identification with uranium a sense of patriotism and new notions of environmentalism But other communities such as Telluride have become sites of resistance skeptical of industry and government promises of safe mining fearing that regulatory enforcement won't be strong enough Indeed Malin shows that the nuclear renaissance has exacerbated social divisions across the Colorado Plateau threatening social cohesion Malin further illustrates ways in which renewed uranium production is not a socially sustainable form of energy development for rural communities as it is utterly dependent on unstable global markets The Price of Nuclear Power is an insightful portrait of the local impact of the nuclear renaissance and the social and environmental tensions inherent in the rebirth of uranium mining Encyclopedia of Contemporary

American Environmental History Carolyn Merchant, 2007-10-31 By studying the many ways diverse peoples have changed shaped and conserved the natural world over time environmental historians provide insight into humanity's unique relationship with nature and more importantly are better able to understand the origins of our current environmental crisis Beginning with the precolonial land use practice of Native Americans and concluding with our twenty first century concerns over our global ecological crisis American Environmental History addresses contentious issues such as the preservation of the wilderness the expulsion of native peoples from national parks and population growth and considers the formative forces of gender race and class Entries address a range of topics from the impact of rice cultivation slavery and the growth of the automobile suburb to the effects of the Russian sea otter trade Columbia River salmon fisheries the environmental justice movement and globalization This illustrated reference is an essential companion for students interested in the ongoing transformation of the American landscape and the conflicts over its resources and conservation It makes rich use of the tools and resources climatic and geological data court records archaeological digs and the writings of naturalists that environmental historians rely on to conduct their research The volume also includes a compendium of significant people concepts events agencies and legislation and an extensive bibliography of critical films books and Web sites

People, Places and Landscapes Richard S. Krannich, A. E. Luloff, Donald R. Field, 2011-05-30 This volume is a cogent empirical analysis of the interplay between a region's natural amenities and its socioeconomic evolution It focuses on the rural sectors of America's Intermountain West region which lies between the Cascades and Sierra Nevada mountains to the west and the Rocky Mountains to the east Coherently structured and meticulously detailed it adds much to our understanding of the ways an area's forests lakes mountains parkland and historic attractions affect residents sense of well being as well as the sociodemographic and economic changes they experience The book examines patterns of growth and change linked to the emergence of New West conditions assessing their implications for the wider community as well as discussing the impact these trends could have on the consumption of natural resources It also points to ways in which communities and their development can be managed sustainably The tight geographical focus of this valuable resource ensures a depth of analysis which can be applied to similar regions worldwide Based on a large scale random sample survey of both full time and seasonal residents it provides a much needed overview of the macro level economic demographic and social transformations affecting rural communities in America As such the book has relevance for all researchers concerned with rural development the changes impacting rural landscapes and natural resource management

North American Odyssey Craig E. Colten, Geoffrey L. Buckley, 2014-03-27 This groundbreaking volume offers a fresh approach to conceptualizing the historical geography of North America by taking a thematic rather than a traditional regional perspective

Leading geographers building on current scholarship in the field explore five central themes Part I explores the settling and resettling of the continent through the experiences of Native Americans early European arrivals and Africans Part II examines nineteenth century European immigrants the reconfiguration of Native society and the internal migration of African Americans Part III considers human transformations of the natural landscape in carving out a transportation network replumbing waterways extracting timber and minerals preserving wilderness and protecting wildlife Part IV focuses on human landscapes blending discussions of the visible imprint of society and distinctive approaches to interpreting these features The authors discuss survey systems regional landscapes and tourist and mythic landscapes as well as the role of race gender and photographic representation in shaping our understanding of past landscapes Part V follows the urban impulse in an analysis of the development of the mercantile city nineteenth and twentieth century planning and environmental justice With its focus on human environment interactions the mobility of people and growing urbanization this thoughtful text will give students a uniquely geographical way to understand North American history Contributions by Derek H Alderman Timothy G Anderson Kevin Blake Christopher G Boone Geoffrey L Buckley Craig E Colten Michael P Conzen Lary M Dilsaver Mona Domosh William E Doolittle Joshua Inwood Ines M Miyares E Arnold Modlin Jr Edward K Muller Michael D Myers Karl Raitz Jasper Rubin Joan M Schwartz Steven Silvern Andrew Sluyter Jeffrey S Smith Robert Wilson William Wyckoff and Yolonda Youngs
