The Oxford Handbook of Synesthesia Julia Simner, Edward M. Hubbard, 2013 Synesthesia is a fascinating phenomenon which has captured the imagination of scientists and artists alike This title brings together a broad body of knowledge about this condition into one definitive state of the art handbook

Developing Synaesthesia Nicolas Rothen, Julia Simner, Beat Meier, 2015-07-24 Synaesthesia is a condition in which a stimulus elicits an additional subjective experience For example the letter E printed in black the inducer may trigger an additional colour experience as a concurrent e g blue Synaesthesia tends to run in families and thus a genetic component is likely However given that the stimuli that typically induce synaesthesia are cultural artefacts a learning component must also be involved Moreover there is evidence that synaesthetic experiences not only activate brain areas typically involved in processing sensory input of the concurrent modality synaesthesia seems to cause a structural reorganisation of the brain Attempts to train non synaesthetes with synaesthetic associations have been successful in mimicking certain behavioural aspects and posthypnotic induction of synaesthetic experiences in non synaesthetes has even led to the according phenomenological reports These latter findings suggest that structural brain reorganization may not be a critical precondition but rather a consequence of the sustained coupling of inducers and concurrents Interestingly synaesthetes seem to be able to easily transfer synaesthetic experiences to novel stimuli Beyond this certain drugs e g LSD can lead to synaesthesia like experiences and may provide additional insights into the neurobiological basis of the condition Furthermore brain damage can both lead to a sudden presence of synaesthetic experiences in previously non synaesthetic individuals and a sudden absence of synaesthesia in previously synaesthetic individuals Moreover enduring sensory substitution has been effective in inducing a kind of acquired synaesthesia Besides informing us about the cognitive mechanisms of synaesthesia synaesthesia research is relevant for more general questions for example about consciousness such as the binding problem about crossmodal correspondences and about how individual differences in perceiving and experiencing the world develop Hence the aim of the current Research Topic is to provide novel insights into the development of synaesthesia both in its genuine and acquired form We welcome novel experimental work and theoretical contributions e g review and opinion articles focussing on factors such as brain maturation learning training hypnosis drugs sensory substitution and brain damage and their relation to the development of any form of synaesthesia

Translating across Sensory and Linguistic Borders Madeleine Campbell, Ricarda Vidal, 2018-12-08 This book analyses intersemiotic translation where the translator works across sign systems and cultural boundaries Challenging Roman Jakobson's seminal definitions it examines how a poem may be expressed as dance a short story as an olfactory experience or a film as a painting This emergent process opens up a myriad of synaesthetic possibilities for both translator and target audience to experience form and sense beyond the limitations of words The editors draw together theoretical and creative contributions from translators artists performers academics and curators who have explored intersemiotic translation in their practice The contributions offer a practitioner's perspective on this rapidly evolving interdisciplinary field which spans semiotics cognitive poetics psychoanalysis and transformative learning theory The book underlines the intermedial and multimodal nature of perception and expression where semiotic boundaries are considered fluid and heuristic rather than ontological It will be of particular interest to practitioners scholars and students of modern foreign languages linguistics literary and cultural studies interdisciplinary humanities visual arts theatre and the performing arts

Block Matthew Rubery, 2022-10-04 What does the term reading mean Matthew Rubery's exploration of the influence neurodivergence has on the ways individuals read asks us to consider that there may be no one definition This alternative history of reading tells the stories of atypical readers and the impact had on their lives by neurological conditions affecting their ability to make sense of the printed word from dyslexia hyperlexia and alexia to synesthesia hallucinations and dementia Rubery's focus on neurodiversity aims to transform our understanding of the very concept of reading Drawing on personal testimonies gathered from literature film life writing social media medical case studies and other sources to express how cognitive differences have shaped people's experiences both on and off the page Rubery contends that there is no single activity known as reading Instead there are multiple ways of reading and for that matter not reading despite the ease with which we use the term Pushing us to rethink what it means to read Reader's Block moves toward an understanding of reading as a spectrum that is capacious enough to accommodate the full range of activities documented in this fascinating and highly original book Read it from cover to cover out of sequence or piecemeal Read it upside down sideways or in a mirror For just as there is no right way to read there is no right way to read this book What matters is that you are doing something with it something that Rubery proposes should be called reading      Neuroscience and Art Amy

Ione, 2024-08-27 This book is focused on how understanding ourselves as humans is incomplete without considering both biological and cultural aspects Using the neurocultural perspective the book explores how everything in the world is filtered back and forth through the brain and culture The thrust of the book therefore is to explore the power of art in creating a bridge between cultural and neuroscientific lines of inquiry Looking at both clinical and non clinical populations the text examines historical foundations distinguishes congenital developmental conditions from those that are acquired and emphasizes how the brain constructs our sensory experiences Several distinctive features separate this research from other publications First the book opens with a review of how the historical literature is still etched into the ideas we employ to explain elements across the interdisciplinary fields of art aesthetics our sensory experience psychology cognition and well being Second the research adopts a humanistic rather than a philosophical or social science perspective in demonstrating the value of coupling anatomy and physiology with the natural and social environment In this artists from all genres are incorporated Among them are Iris Murdoch Ludwig van Beethoven Leonardo da Vinci Cristoforo de Predis Rembrandt Federico Fellini Chuck Close and David Hockney Case studies demonstrate how neuroscientific research meshes with art individual and cultural variables in ways that range from health and well being to physiological decline and biological traumas These include a case study that examines how Oliver Sacks combined biology and biography in his writings It also explores art projects in several genres inspired by his studies Another case study is on the role of film as a useful clinical tool Here the book also demonstrates that cinematic devices used by filmmakers intersect with perceptual and cognitive neuroscience A defining feature of the analysis is the integration of research on brain injuries with humanistic responses in film literature and the visual arts This section outlines the lack of consensus regarding the causes and treatment of shell shock in World War I before introducing how research and art now work with PTSD TBI Finally the book examines therapeutic cases of professional and non professional artists concluding with a discussion of synesthesia and the senses

Spellbound Craig McDaniel, Jean Robertson, 2016-07-01 Asserting that written language is on the verge of its greatest change since the advent of the printing press visual artist Craig McDaniel and art historian Jean Robertson bring us Spellbound a collection of heavily illustrated essays that interrogate assumptions about language and typography Rethinking the alphabet they argue means rethinking human communication Looking beyond traditional typography the authors conceive of new languages in which encoded pictorial images offer an unparalleled fusion of art and language In a world of constant technological innovation offered by e books tablets cell phones and the Internet McDaniel and Robertson demonstrate provocatively what it would mean to move beyond the alphabet we know to a wholly new system of written communication

Art and the Brain Amy Ione, 2016-10-11 In her new book Art and the Brain Plasticity Embodiment and the Unclosed Circle Amy Ione offers a profound assessment of our ever evolving view of the biological brain as it pertains to embodied human experience She deftly takes the reader from Deep History into our current worldview by surveying the range of nascent responses to perception thoughts and feelings that have bred paradigmatic changes and led to contemporary research modalities Interweaving carefully chosen illustrations with the emerging ideas of brain function that define various time periods reinforces a multidisciplinary framework connecting neurological research theories of mind art investigations and intergenerational cultural practices The book will serve as a foundation for future investigations of neuroscience art and the humanities

Dimensions of Iconicity Angelika Zirker, Matthias Bauer, Olga Fischer, Christina Ljungberg, 2017-09-08 This volume addresses five different Dimensions of Iconicity While some contributions examine the phonic dimensions of iconicity that are based on empirical diachronic and theoretical work others explore the function of similarity from a cognitive point of view The section on multimodal dimensions takes into account philosophical linguistic and literary perspectives in order to analyse for example the diagrammatic interplay of written texts and images Contributions on performative dimensions of iconicity focus on Buddhist mantras Hollywood films and the dynamics of rhetorical structures in Shakespeare Last but not least the volume also addresses new ways of considering iconicity including notational iconicity the interplay of iconicity ambiguity interpretability and the iconicity of literary analysis from a formal semanticist point of view
