Plastiques Stephan Engelsmann, Valerie Spalding, Stefan Peters, 2012-11-05 Plastics are high performance materials of wide use in the built environment Their versatile technical properties are particularly fascinating A broad range of form giving and finishing processes makes plastic especially interesting for complex geometries in combination with digital planning processes Following the pioneering plastic structures of the 1970s a number of spectacular buildings have in recent years highlighted the outstanding technical and aesthetic potential of the material Until now however there has been no systematic treatment of the use of plastic in architecture This book seeks to fill that gap by providing an introduction to the structural and design possibilities of plastic It introduces the material and its specific characteristics describes various types of plastic in terms of their relevance for building explains processing technologies and presents typical products and components A concise presentation of twenty five international built projects organized by the type of application and the plastic involved documents the broad range of plastic in architecture Finally a look ahead at the future describes the current glass represents a well defined chapter within the history of the medium These objects which range in date from the late Middle Ages to the late seventeenth century originated in important Italian German Bohemian Netherlandish Silesian and Austrian centers of production The sixty eight pieces presented in this catalogue include vessels made to resemble rock crystal or chalcedony glass blown into unusually large or remarkably refined shapes and glass decorated with ornament that is intricately applied elegantly enameled or gilded Each object is described in detail including provenance bibliography and relevant comparative examples An introductory essay traces the history of European glass from classical times to the present
