to your own life is a testament to your dedication to living with purpose and embracing your potential Teaching Character in the Primary Classroom Tom Harrison, Ian Morris, John Ryan, 2016-03-10 Teaching Character in the Primary Classroom provides an excellent and very accessible overview of the emerging field of character education. It covers in detail the theory of character education as well as advice and guidance about how this should be applied in practice in primary schools. Professor James Arthur, University of Birmingham, Character matters. As more and more schools are choosing to teach Character Education, trainee and beginning teachers need to know more. What is Character Education? Can it really be taught? How does children's learning benefit from discussions around character in the classroom? How do I teach it? What does good teaching of Character Education look like in the classroom? Teaching Character Education in Primary schools tackles these questions and many more. This is a practical guide to why and how we can teach character in primary schools. It begins by exploring why character matters and considers what character is and importantly what it is not. It goes on to discuss the place for teaching character in primary education and includes practical guidance on how it can be taught. The text also looks at character beyond the classroom: how parents and the wider community can be included in the teaching of character and how outdoor learning and education can contribute. This book is written for all those who are new to teaching character.

Water Worlds: Human Geographies of the Ocean Dr Jon Anderson, Dr Kimberley Peters, 2014-02-28 Our world is a water world. Seventy percent of our planet consists of ocean. However, geography has traditionally overlooked this vital component of the earth's composition. The word geography directly translates as earth writing and in line with this definition, the discipline has preoccupied itself with the study of terrestrial spaces of society and nature. This book challenges human geography's preoccupation with the terrestrial, investigating the terra incognita of the seas and oceans. Linking to new theoretical debates shaping the geographic discipline, such as affect, assemblage, emotion, hybridity and the more than human, this volume unlocks new knowledge concerning the human geographies of ocean space. The book casts adrift stable, bounded and fixed conceptions of space and advances geographical understanding based on the world as becoming, changing, mobile and processional. This ontology supports the notion that the oceans are not simply fluid in a literal way but also in a conceptual sense, suggesting that the seas have their own fluid natures, their own capacities and agencies which are co-fabricated with social and cultural life. This book features twelve chapters authored by key academics contributing to this growing field of research. The book is divided into three sections, including an Introduction by the editors and a foreword by Prof Philip E Steinberg, the leading scholar in the field of maritime geographies. The first section of the book considers the ways in which different watery spaces, from the Atlantic Ocean to the Mediterranean Sea, have been conceptualized, theorized and known through metaphors, voyages of discovery and scientific endeavour. The second section examines how oceans are experienced through various activities, including driving on water, kayaking in water and diving under water. The final section explores the relations between human life and the nature of the sea as a material, mobile and more than human space.

examining the influences of the ocean on the migratory practices of fishermen in Senegal to the more than human geographies of the contemporary scallop industry the historical journeys of steam ship companies and the pirate radio enterprise Oceans are fundamental to the workings of the world as we know it Critical human activities take place at sea including trade tourism migration scientific exploration and resource exploitation The water world is therefore significantly entwined with our everyday lives This book offers a novel and important contribution to an ever emerging cross disciplinary subject matter

Acts of Activism D. Soyini Madison, 2010-01-14 This book was first published in 2010 Madison presents the neglected yet compelling and necessary story of local activists in South Saharan Africa who employ modes of performance as tactics of resistance and intervention in their day to day struggles for human rights The dynamic relationship between performance and activism are illustrated in three case studies Act One presents a battle between tradition and modernity as the bodies of African women are caught in the cross fire Act Two focuses on water democracy as activists fight for safe accessible public water as a human right Act Three examines the efficacy of street performance and theatre for development in the oral histories of Ghanaian gender activists Unique to this book is the continuing juxtaposition between the everyday performances of local activism and their staged enactments before theatre audiences in Ghana and the USA Madison beautifully demonstrates how these disparate sites of performance cohere in the service of rights justice and activism

Where the Sky Touched the Earth Don Lago, 2017-02-01. The landscapes of the American Southwest: the Grand Canyon, Monument Valley, the Sedona red rocks have long filled humans with wonder about nature. This is the home of Lowell Observatory where astronomers first discovered evidence that the universe is expanding; Meteor Crater where Apollo astronauts trained for the moon; and Native American tribes with their own ancient rich ways of relating to the cosmos. With the personal poetic style of the very best literary nature writing, Don Lago explores how these landscapes have offered humans a deeper sense of connection with the universe. While most nature writing never leaves the ground, Lago is one of the few writers who has applied it to the universe, seeking ties between humans and the astronomical forces that gave us birth. Nowhere else in the world is the link between earth and sky so powerful. Lago witnesses a solar eclipse over the Grand Canyon, climbs primeval volcanos and sees the universe in tree rings. Through ageless Native American ceremonies, modern telescopes and even dreams of flying saucers, Lago—who is not only a poet but a true philosopher of science—strives to find order and meaning in the world and brings out the Southwest's beauty and mystery.
