Online Years Planning Singapore Scientific Nation Building:

Asian Revitalization Katie Cumber, 2021-01-11 Adaptive reuse refers to reusing an old building for a purpose other than which it was originally built or designed. This conservation approach has become increasingly popular around the world. However, there are few publications that focus on its application in Asia. This book fills this gap by looking at both unique and shared aspects of adaptive reuse in three Asian urban centers: Hong Kong, Shanghai, and Singapore. Building on government policy documents and extensive field work, this book contextualizes adaptive reuse in each city and reveals the impetus behind a wide range of projects, from revitalization in Hong Kong, commercial development in Shanghai, to community building in Singapore. The introductory chapter sets adaptive reuse within an international perspective, noting salient differences and similarities between Asia and other parts of the world. It also anchors the discussion within a regional perspective, focusing on the similarities and differences between Hong Kong, Shanghai, and Singapore. Each of the following four essays addresses a specific topic about adaptive reuse, including its relationship to urban development and sustainability, how it benefits heritage buildings, and how it reveals best practices in heritage conservation in Asia. The subsequent three essays, one for each city, supplemented with timelines, set out a clear framework for understanding the city-specific case studies that follow the essays. Afterwards, fifteen representative projects across the three cities are presented as in-depth case studies. The pairing of essays and case studies provides a detailed understanding of each city's approach to adaptive reuse in the twenty-first century, a time when the need for sustainable development solutions are at the forefront. Intended for classroom use and professional readership, this book will be of considerable value in Asia as well as elsewhere, providing material for stimulating and worthwhile discussion. Asian Revitalization is a highly practical and accessible volume on the long-established conservation practice of adaptive reuse in East Asia. Its focus on real-life issues, examples, and challenges posed by revitalization programs in the region is extremely relevant to researchers and practitioners in architectural conservation, urban design, and urban studies. Miles Glendinning, University of Edinburgh, Scotland. This is a superb, well-documented, and original book written by some of the best-known and highly respected authors in the field of heritage conservation. The carefully examined case studies illustrate a wide variety of solutions that highlight the work of some of the best minds of the next generations. Alastair Kerr, University of Victoria, Canada. This is a most interesting set of essays, informative and thought-provoking. The best way to save any heritage building is by keeping it in beneficial use, and how to achieve this in a sensitive manner is what these essays are about. They should be vital reading for anyone considering an adaptive reuse project in Asia. Michael Morrison Purcell, UK. With cultural heritage firmly ensconced in the global development agendas of the United Nations, this well-grounded volume draws upon the experience of Hong Kong, SAR, Shanghai, and Singapore to demonstrate to scholars and practitioners alike how historic properties can be sustained through savvy adaptive reuse in the midst of tremendous urban redevelopment pressures. Montira Horayangura Unakul, UNESCO.

Bangkok Thailand China's 'Singapore Model' and Authoritarian Learning Stephan Ortmann, Mark R. Thompson, 2020-03-24 This book explores to what extent China has drawn lessons from Singapore both in terms of its ruling ideology and through the policy specific learning process In so doing it provides insights into the opportunities but also the challenges of this long term learning process focusing attention to how non democratic regimes deal with modernization The stellar line up of international contributors from China Singapore Europe and the US offer a variety of perspectives on Singapore as a model of authoritarian modernism for China The book discusses how the small Southeast Asian city state became a major reference point for China how mainland observers often misunderstood the nature of Singapore's governance and instrumentalized it to bolster the CCP's legitimacy and why the Singapore model appears to be in decline under Xi Jinping The chapters also analyze policy specific learning processes including bilateral mechanisms of policy exchange the Chinese mayor's class in Singapore and joint industrial projects and lessons in social welfare provision The book will be of interest to academics working on Chinese politics development in China state society and economy in the Asia Pacific international relations in the Asia Pacific and Southeast Asian politics Singapore Michael D. Barr, 2018-12-13 Singapore gained independence in 1965 a city state in a world of nation states Yet its long and complex history reaches much farther back Blending modernity and tradition ideologies and ethnicities a peculiar set of factors make Singapore what it is today In this thematic study of the island nation Michael D Barr proposes a new approach to understand this development From the pre colonial period through to the modern day he traces the idea the politics and the geography of Singapore over five centuries of rich history In doing so he rejects the official narrative of the so called Singapore Story Drawing on in depth archival work and oral histories Singapore A Modern History is a work both for students of the country's history and politics but also for any reader seeking to engage with this enigmatic and vastly successful nation Handbook of Emerging Economies Robert E.
