Nudge Nudge Think Think By John Peter Cotterill Sarah Richardson Liz 2013 Paperback:

Nudge, nudge, think, think Peter John, Sarah Cotterill, Alice Moseley, Liz Richardson, Graham Smith, Gerry Stoker, Corinne Wales, 2019-07-04 How can governments persuade their citizens to act in socially beneficial ways This ground breaking book builds on the idea of light touch interventions or nudges proposed in Richard Thaler and Cass Sunstein s highly influential Nudge 2008 While recognising the power of this approach it argues that an alternative also needs to be considered a think strategy that calls on citizens to decide their own priorities as part of a process of civic and democratic renewal As well as setting out these divergent approaches in theory the book provides evidence from a number of experiments to show how using nudge or think techniques works in practice Updated and rewritten this second edition features a new epilogue that reflects on recent developments in nudge theory and practice introducing a radical version of nudge nudge plus There is also a substantial prologue by Cass Sunstein The Oxford Handbook of Australian Politics

Jenny M. Lewis, Anne Tiernan, 2021 This Handbook provides a comprehensive examination of Australia s distinctive politics both ancient and modern across multidisciplinary subjects It examines the factors that make Australian politics unique and interesting while firmly placing these in the context of the nation s Indigenous and imported heritage and global engagement

Field Experiments in Political Science and Public Policy Peter John, 2017-01-06 Field experiments randomized controlled trials have become ever more popular in political science as well as in other disciplines such as economics social policy and development Policy makers have also increasingly used randomization to evaluate public policies designing trials of tax reminders welfare policies and international aid programs to name just a few of the interventions tested in this way Field experiments have become successful because they assess causal claims in ways that other methods of evaluation find hard to emulate Social scientists and evaluators have rediscovered how to design and analyze field experiments but they have paid much less attention to the challenges of organizing and managing them Field experiments pose unique challenges and opportunities for the researcher and evaluator which come from working in the field The research experience can be challenging and at times hard to predict This book aims to help researchers and evaluators plan and manage their field experiments so they can avoid common pitfalls It is also intended to open up discussion about the context and backdrop to trials so that these practical aspects of field experiments are better understood The book sets out ten steps researchers can use to plan their field experiments then nine threats to watch out for when they implement them There are cases studies of voting and political participation elites welfare and employment nudging citizens and developing countries

Environmental Law in Arab States Damilola S. Olawuyi, 2022-02-11 Environmental Law in Arab States offers a comprehensive and authoritative account of the guiding principles and rules relating to environmental protection in the Arab region Taking an international and comparative approach the book introduces readers to the latest developments of environmental law across the Arab region through applicable legislation green finance and climate technologies The impact of these is assessed in each of the major areas of environmental regulation air pollution water pollution biodiversity conservation of nature and cultural heritage infrastructure development and Islamic ecology Consideration is given to participatory and bottom up legal strategies focusing on transparency accountability gender justice and other human rights safeguards that are needed to achieve greater coherence and coordination in the implementation and enforcement of environmental regulation across the region The book closes by providing legal assessments and reflections on how Arab countries can through clear and comprehensive legislation advance existing national strategies and visions on trade and investment green growth Islamic green finance circular economy blue economy and low carbon future amongst others

Political Consumerism Dietlind Stolle, Michele Micheletti, 2013-08-26 Political Consumerism captures the creative ways in which citizens consumers and political activists use the market as their arena for politics This book theorizes describes analyzes compares and evaluates the phenomenon of political consumerism and how it attempts to use market choice to solve complex globalized problems It investigates theoretically and empirically how and why consumers practice citizenship and have become important political actors Dietlind Stolle and Michele Micheletti describe consumers engagement as an example of individualized responsibility taking examining how political consumerism nudges and pressures corporations to change their production practices and how consumers emerge as a force in global affairs Unlike other studies it also evaluates if and how consumer actions become effective mechanisms of global change Stolle and Micheletti offer a candid discussion of the limitations of political consumerism as a form of participation and as a problem solving mechanism Putting Citizens First Evert A. Lindquist, Sam Vincent, John Wanna, 2013-08-01 This book explores the ways in which governments are putting citizens first in their policy making endeavours Making citizens the focus of policy interventions and involving them in the delivery and design is for many governments a normative ideal it is a worthy objective and sounds easy to achieve But the reality is that putting citizens at the centre of policy making is hard and confronting Are governments really serious in their ambitions to put citizens first Are they prepared for the challenges and demands such an approach will demand Are they prepared to commit the time and resources to ensure genuine engagement takes place and that citizens interests are considered foremost And more importantly are governments prepared for the trade offs risks and loss of control such citizen centric approaches will inevitably involve Nudge, Nudge, Think, Think Peter John, Sarah Cotterill, Liz Richardson, Alice Moseley, Gerry Stoker, Corinne Wales, Graham Smith, 2011-09-15 How can governments persuade citizens to act in socially beneficial ways Thaler and Sunstein's book Nudge drew on work from behavioural economics to claim that citizens might be encouraged through light touch interventions i.e. nudges to take action In this ground breaking successor to Nudge Peter John and his colleagues argue that an alternative approach also needs to be considered based on what they call a think strategy Their core idea is that citizens should themselves deliberate and decide their own priorities as part of a process of civic and democratic renewal The authors not only set out these divergent approaches in theory but they offer evidence from a series of experiments to show how using techniques from nudge or think repertoires work in practice and how that practice is made effective The book is unique in exploring an expanding field of policy and social science interest changing civic behaviour using insights from another growing field of social science interest the rise of experimental methods
