advent of today's cloud ecosystems as successors to older service ecosystems based on networks. Further, it describes the shifting of services to the cloud as a long-term trend that is still progressing rapidly. The book adopts a comprehensive perspective on the key success factors for the technology-compelling business models and ecosystems, including private, public, and national organizations. The authors explore the evolution of service ecosystems, describe the similarities and differences, and analyze the way they have created and changed industries. Lastly, based on the current status of cloud computing and related technologies like virtualization, the Internet of Things, fog computing, big data, and analytics, cognitive computing, and blockchain, the authors provide a revealing outlook on the possibilities of future technologies, the future of the Internet, and the potential impacts on business and society.

Citizenship for the Learning Society Naomi

Hodgson, 2016-03-02. Within Citizenship for the Learning Society, the governance of the learning citizen is mapped in relation to European educational and cultural policy. Prevalent notions of voice and narrative in policy and in educational research are analysed in relation to Europe's history. The text is concerned with the way in which European citizenship is understood in current policy, the way in which the term citizenship operates, and how learning is central to this. Analysis combines educational philosophy and theory with anthropological, sociological, and classic philosophical literature. Draws on both Continental European (Foucault, Deleuze, Heidegger, Levinas) and American (Cavell, Emerson, Thoreau) philosophy. Material is organised in two parts. Part One discusses the discourses and practices of citizenship in the European learning society in both educational and cultural policy and educational research from the perspective of governmentality. Part Two provides analysis of particular aspects of this discourse.

Women's Agency and Mobile Communication

Under the Radar Xin Pei, Pranav Malhotra, Rich Ling, 2024-02-01. This volume maps the role of mobile communication in the daily lives of women around the globe, shedding light on under-the-radar use of mobile communication to display a nuanced understanding of social impacts that may affect the gender construction processes of women at the individual, institutional, and societal levels. A global team of authors focus on the use of mobile communication by women in the lower rungs of their respective societies, as well as those who migrate with marginalized statuses within and across the national borders, to demonstrate how under-the-radar use of mobile communication is deeply inscribed within diversified social, cultural, historical, and political milieus. Illuminating the social structural constraints faced by women under their dynamic negotiation of agentic mobile phone use for self-empowerment, the chapters cover women's economic activities, health care, well-being, migration, gendered identity, and the practices of different gender roles. This comprehensive and interdisciplinary volume will be of interest to scholars and students of media and communication, new and digital media, mobile communication, gender studies,
