Metadata is a reaction to the current digital library landscape that is being challenged with growing online collections and changing user expectations. The theory provides the conceptual underpinnings for a new approach which moves away from expert defined standardised metadata to a user driven approach with users as metadata co creators. Moving away from definitive authoritative metadata to a system that reflects the diversity of users terminologies it changes the current focus on metadata simplicity and efficiency to one of metadata enriching which is a continuous and evolving process of data linking. From predefined description to information conceptualised contextualised and filtered at the point of delivery. By presenting this shift this book provides a coherent structure in which future technological developments can be considered. Metadata is valuable when continuously enriched by experts and users. Metadata enriching results from ubiquitous linking. Metadata is a resource that should be linked openly. The power of metadata is unlocked when enriched metadata is filtered for users individually.
