It serves students, architects, engineers, designers and acousticians.

Performing Arts Center Management Patricia Lambert, Robyn Williams, 2016-11-03 Performing arts centers (PACs) are an integral part of the cultural and creative industries, significantly influencing the cultural, social and economic vitality of communities around the world. Virtually all PACs are community based and serve the public interest, whether structured as a public nonprofit, for profit or hybrid entity. However, there is a lack of knowledge about the important community role of performing arts centers, especially those that mainly host and present work produced by other arts organizations. This gap is startling given the ubiquitous presence of PACs in urban centers, small communities as well as colleges and universities. This co-edited reference book provides valuable information at the intersection of theory and practice in the professional field of executive leadership of performing arts centers. Drawing on the expertise of leading academics, consultants and executives, this book focuses on institutions and practices in the United States and is contextualized within additional fields such as cultural planning, urban revitalization and economic development. Performing Arts Center Management aims to provide valuable theoretical, conceptual, empirical and practice based information to current and future leaders in creative and cultural industries management. It serves as a unique reference for researchers, university students, civic leaders, urban planners, public venue managers and arts administrators aspiring to improve or advance their work in successfully managing performing arts centers.

Site and Sound Victoria Newhouse, 2012-04-10 Victoria Newhouse, noted author and architectural historian, addresses the aesthetics and acoustics in concert halls and opera houses of the past, present and future in this stunning companion to the highly regarded Towards a New Museum. Site and Sound explores the daunting perennial question: Does the music serve the space or the other way around? Heavily illustrated throughout with historic images, spectacular color photographs, detailed drawings, this volume is an informed and enjoyable presentation of a building type that is at the heart of cities, small and large. Newhouse starts with a survey of venues from ancient Greek and Roman times and progresses to contemporary works around the world. She singles out Lincoln Center in particular for its long history and its transitions and remodelings over the years. Two major chapters cover the present: one focuses on recent work in the West, including the National Opera House of Norway in Oslo by Snøhetta, 2008; the Casa da Música in Porto, Portugal by Rem Koolhaas, 2005; and many more. The second examines the boom in concert halls in China. A final chapter looks at projects that are currently planned and the future of an architecture for music.

Making Music with Sounds Leigh Landy, 2012 Making Music with Sounds offers a creative introduction to the art of making sound based music It introduces the elements of making compositions with sounds and facilitates creativity in school age children with the activities primarily for 11 14 year old students It can also be used by people of all ages becoming acquainted with this music for the first time Sound based music is defined as the art form in which the sound rather than the musical note is the basic unit and is closely related to electronic music and the sonic arts The art of sound organisation can be found in a number of forms of music in film television theatre dance and new media Despite this there are few materials available currently for young people to discover how to make sound based music This book offers a programme of development starting from aural awareness through the discovery and organisation of potential sounds to the means of generating and manipulating sounds to create sequences and entire works The book s holistic pedagogical approach to composition also involves aspects related to musical understanding and appreciation reinforced by the author s online pedagogical ElectroAcoustic Resource Site EARS II Architectural Acoustics Christopher N. Acoustics as a branch of physics involves heavy mathematics and the practice of architectural acoustics involves knowledge of a broad range of subjects For these reasons many people believe that good acoustics are almost impossible to obtain and exist only in concert halls With a solid understanding of the basics however rooms with good acoustics are not as hard to design and build as people might think This work describes acoustics and the factors to be considered in constructing a room or building with good sound quality Among the topics covered are intonation tuning and temperaments of classical music environmental noise noise and vibration control sound measurement sound systems acoustic models and acoustical design for various settings and purposes including acoustics for chamber music synagogues churches and classrooms The work looks at places like Clemens Theatre Congress Hall Binns Rehearsal Room and Philharmonic Hall to name just a few as models of small and large buildings with excellent acoustics Many diagrams and other illustrations enhance the text
