Ibata-Arens,2019-04-16 The biomedical industry which includes biopharmaceuticals genomics and stem cell therapies and medical devices is among the fastest growing worldwide While it has been an economic development target of many national governments Asia is currently on track to reach the epicenter of this growth What accounts for the rapid and sustained economic growth of biomedical in Asia To answer this question Kathryn Iyata Arens integrates global and national data with original fieldwork to present a conceptual framework that considers how national governments have managed key factors like innovative capacity government policy and firm level strategies Taking China India Japan and Singapore in turn she compares each country s underlying competitive advantages What emerges is an argument that countries pursuing networked technonationalism NTN effectively upgrade their capacity for innovation and encourage entrepreneurial activity in targeted industries In contrast to countries that engage in classic technonationalism like Japan s developmental state approach networked technonationalists are global minded to outside markets while remaining nationalistic within the domestic economy By bringing together aggregate data at the global and national level with original fieldwork and drawing on rich cases Iyata Arens telegraphs implications for innovation policy and entrepreneurship strategy in Asia and beyond
