Night Day Toronto Night Day Toronto:

Anxious Days and Tearful Nights Martha Hanna, 2020-10-22 What was it like to be a soldier's wife in Canada during the First World War? More than 80 000 Canadian women were married to men who left home to fight in the war and its effects on their lives were transformative and often traumatic. Yet the everyday struggles of Canadian war wives lived far from the battlefields of France have remained in the shadows of historical memory. Anxious Days and Tearful Nights highlights how Canadian women's experiences of wartime marital separation resembled and differed from those of their European counterparts. Drawing on the letters of married couples separated by wartime service and the military service records of hundreds of Canadian soldiers, Martha Hanna reveals how couples used correspondence to maintain the routine and the affection of domestic life. She explores how women managed households and budgets, how those with children coped with the challenges of what we today would call single parenthood, and when and why some war wives chose to relocate to Britain to be nearer to their husbands. More than anything else, the life of a war wife, especially a war wife separated from her husband for years on end, was marked and marred by unrelieved psychological stress. Through this close personal lens, Hanna reveals a broader picture of how war's effects persist across time and space. Brick, Tile & Terra Cotta Workers' Journal, 1902

In the context of the bloody battles of Vimy Ridge, Hill 70, Passchendaele, and of the Halifax explosion, Sir Robert Borden's Conservative government introduced conscription and called for a wartime election. Most Liberals led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier opposed compulsory military service, while in Quebec a new movement emerged to contest the Canadian government's attitude and policy. To survive and win the election, Prime Minister Borden resorted to unprecedented measures that tested the fabric of Canadian democracy. The Railroad Telegrapher, 1914 The Labour Gazette Canada. Designed for tourists and for residents, Toronto's Many Faces is the one and only guide to the multicultural character of the city, featuring profiles of more than 60 ethnic communities, including local histories, festivals, food, and art. The book identifies each community, where its people come from, why, when, and where they settled in Toronto. The contribution of each community is also traced with biographical notes on prominent people whose achievements have been extraordinary. Everyday Law on the Street Mariana Valverde, 2012-10-22 Toronto prides itself on being the world's most diverse city and its officials seek to support this diversity through programs and policies designed to promote social inclusion Yet this progressive vision of law often falls short in practice limited by problems inherent in the political culture itself In Everyday Law on the Street Mariana Valverde brings to light the often unexpected ways that the development and implementation of policies shape everyday urban life Drawing on four years spent participating in council hearings and civic association meetings and shadowing housing inspectors and law enforcement officials as they went about their day to day work Valverde reveals a telling transformation between law on the books and law on the streets She finds for example that some of the democratic governing mechanisms generally applauded public meetings for instance actually create disadvantages for marginalized groups whose members are less likely to attend or articulate their concerns As a result both officials and citizens fail to see problems outside the point of view of their own needs and neighborhood Taking issue with Jane Jacobs and many others Valverde ultimately argues that Toronto and other diverse cities must reevaluate their allegiance to strictly local solutions If urban diversity is to be truly inclusive of tenants as well as homeowners and recent immigrants as well as longtime residents cities must move beyond micro local planning and embrace a more expansive citywide approach to planning and regulation Grip, 1874 Long Night's Journey into Day Charles G. Roland, 2010-10-30 Sickness starvation brutality and forced labour plagued the existence of tens of thousands of Allied POWs in World War II More than a quarter of these POWs died in captivity Long Night's Journey into Day centres on the lives of Canadian British Indian and Hong Kong POWs captured at Hong Kong in December 1941 and incarcerated in camps in Hong Kong and the Japanese Home Islands Experiences of American POWs in the Philippines and British and Australians POWs in Singapore are interwoven throughout the book Starvation and diseases such as diphtheria beriberi dysentery and tuberculosis afflicted all these unfortunate men affecting their lives not only in the camps during the war but after they returned home Yet despite the dispiriting circumstances of their captivity these men found ways to improve their existence keeping up their morale with such events as musical concerts and entertainments created entirely within the various camps Based largely on hundreds of interviews with former POWs as well as material culled from archives around the world Professor Roland details the extremes the prisoners endured from having to eat fattened maggots in order to live to choosing starvation by trading away their skimpy rations for cigarettes No previous book has shown the essential relationship between almost universal ill health and POW life and death or provides such a complete and unbiased account of POW life in the Far East in the 1940s Mind Your Ps and Qs Edward R W Makhene, 2008-03-17 One cannot know anything about what is in the natural world until one is presented with it but how one views what is thus presented depends on one's worldview and logical sagacity. Our actions, whether past, present, or future, were, are, and will be regulated by causes and their effects as manifested in events. In fact, our personal identities are defined by the events in our lives and by our worldviews. Young people should be acquiring discriminating skills to guide their thinking and to calculate their actions on these matters early in their lives instead of being distracted by contrived trivialities and submitting their minds to manipulation by persons who are promoting their versions of the world that serve only their own vested interests.
