Effective Patient Education Donna R. Falvo, 2004 Effective Patient Education helps health professionals and students develop the skills and knowledge to conduct effective patient education in a highly efficient way It emphasizes a team approach to patient education recognizing that because of the complexity of health care many health professionals are involved in patient care This book is therefore written for nurses physicians physical therapists dietitians pharmacists and other health care professionals who share responsibility to guide their patients in enhancing and maintaining health and well being Effective patient education is a way of communicating that fosters a partnership between the patient and health professional It involves more than giving information and instruction In order to conduct effective patient education health professionals must recognize that individual patient variables influence the degree to which a patient will follow health advice The health professional can assess the patient s preexisting beliefs and attitudes fears and anxieties and individual life and family circumstances in order to communicate health recommendations in accordance with individual patient needs Current Awareness in Patient Education ,1982 Contains abstracts entered into the National database on health education from Oct 1980 through Aug 1981 Fundamentals of Nursing - E-Book Patricia A. Potter,Anne Griffin Perry,Patricia Stockert,Amy Hall,2016-02-02 It s your complete guide to nursing from basic concepts to essential skills Fundamentals of Nursing 9th Edition prepares you to succeed as a nurse by providing a solid foundation in critical thinking evidence based practice nursing theory and safe clinical care in all settings With illustrated step by step guidelines this book makes it easy to learn important skills and procedures Care plans are presented within a nursing process framework and case studies show how to apply concepts to nursing practice From an expert author team led by Patricia Potter and Anne Griffin Perry this bestselling nursing textbook helps you develop the understanding and clinical reasoning you need to provide excellent patient care 51 skills demonstrations provide illustrated step by step instructions for safe nursing care and include rationales for each step 29 procedural guidelines provide streamlined step by step instructions for performing basic skills UNIQUE Critical Thinking Models in each clinical chapter show how to apply the nursing process and critical thinking to achieve successful clinical outcomes Evidence Based Practice chapter shows how nursing research helps in determining best practices UNIQUE Caring for the Cancer Survivor chapter prepares nurses to care for cancer patients who may still face physical and emotional issues Case studies include unique clinical application questions and exercises allowing you to practice using care plans and concept maps The 5 step nursing process provides a consistent framework for care and is demonstrated in more than 20 care plans 15 review questions in every chapter test your retention of key concepts with answers available in the book and on the Evolve companion website Practical study tools on Evolve include video clips of skills skills checklists printable key points a fluid electrolytes tutorial a concept map creator an audio glossary and more UNIQUE Clear streamlined writing style makes complex material more approachable More than 20 concept maps show care planning for clients with multiple nursing diagnoses Key points and key terms in each chapter summarize important content for more efficient review and study Unexpected Outcomes and Related Interventions for each skill alert you to potential problems and appropriate nursing actions Delegation coverage clarifies which tasks can and cannot be delegated A glossary provides quick access to definitions for all key terms Impact of Pain and Evaluation of Education and Self-Care in Patients with Head and Neck Cancer Anne Söderlund Schaller,2018-04-13 It is not unusual for patients with head and neck cancer HNC to suffer from both tumor and treatment related pain that is difficult to alleviate despite individualized pharmacological treatment The presence of concomitant various dimensions of pain in patients during the often difficult period following radiotherapy RT has not been elucidated Several aspects concerning the importance of relatives for HNC patients have been addressed

However little attention has been given to how relatives perceive patients with HNC pain and it is important to further elucidate this sparsely studied topic Knowledge about health related quality of life HR QoL in this patient group during early RT is limited and needs to be assessed in relation to diagnosis and treatment Self care SC refers to what patients do on their own to achieve maintain and promote optimal health and may help reduce pain for several pain conditions The impact of patient education and SC on pain and other common HNC symptoms need further clarification The aims of this thesis were to describe experiences and perceptions of pain in patients with HNC shortly after RT to describe how relatives perceived the patient's situation especially concerning pain and how they experienced their own situation to identify factors that impact HR QoL during early RT to develop effective pain management strategies maintain activities of daily living and promote HR QoL in patients with HNC undergoing RT using patient education and SC instruction In paper I patients with HNC described existential pain expressed as fear of death meaninglessness and guilt already during and shortly after RT Physical pain psychological distress and social withdrawal played a significant role Patients with HNC who were treated with RT should also proactively be offered treatment for the various dimensions of pain In paper II relatives described their mental stress in response to a challenging situation that required their active support to help ease the patient's difficult condition The interviews with relatives also revealed a lack of personal knowledge and frustration over the inability to participate in patient care as well as inadequate support from the healthcare system Early interventions from the healthcare system on behalf of the relatives may be necessary to meet these needs In Paper III regression models revealed that pain intensity and symptoms of depression adversely affected HR QoL in patients with HNC during early RT Customized prehabilitation programs aimed at preventing pain and symptoms of depression could help preserve good HR QoL Paper IV assessed individual patient education and SC initiatives that resulted in a tendency for lower pain intensity during a portion of RT One way to potentially enhance the benefits of education and SC could be to improve for example patient motivation and self efficacy as well as to optimize supportive efforts from caregivers In conclusion by identifying factors that can impact HR QoL and evaluating the effect of patient education and SC this thesis contributes to knowledge on perceived pain and the patient's situation during and shortly after RT in patients with HNC and their relatives This thesis points to the need for evaluation and further development of patient education and effective SC strategies for pain in patients with HNC undergoing RT as well as for development and evaluation of support strategies for patients with pain and their families during and after RT
