Towards a Global Perspective Anders Pettersson, Gunilla Lindberg-Wada, Margareta Petersson, Stefan

Helgesson, 2011-12-22 Literary History Towards a Global Perspective is a research project funded by the Swedish Research Council Vetenskapsr det Initiated in 1996 and launched in 1999 it aims at finding suitable methods and approaches for studying and analysing literature globally emphasizing the comparative and intercultural aspect Even though we nowadays have fast and easy access to any kind of information on literature and literary history we encounter more than ever the difficulty of finding a credible overall perspective on world literary history Until today literary cultures and traditions have usually been studied separately each field using its own principles and methods Even the conceptual basis itself varies from section to section and the genre concepts employed are not mutually compatible As a consequence it is very difficult if not impossible for the interested layperson as well as for the professional student to gain a clear and fair perspective both on the literary traditions of other peoples and on one's own traditions The project can be considered as a contribution to gradually removing this problem and helping to gain a better understanding of literature and literary history by means of a concerted empirical research and deeper conceptual reflection The contributions to the four volumes are written in English by specialists from a large number of disciplines primarily from the fields of comparative literature Oriental studies and African studies in Sweden All of the literary texts discussed in the articles are in the original language Each one of the four volumes is devoted to a special research topic

The One vs. the Many Alex Woloch, 2009-02-09 Does a novel focus on one life or many Alex Woloch uses this simple question to develop a powerful new theory of the realist novel based on how narratives distribute limited attention among a crowded field of characters His argument has important implications for both literary studies and narrative theory Characterization has long been a troubled and neglected problem within literary theory Through close readings of such novels as Pride and Prejudice, Great Expectations and Le Père Goriot Woloch demonstrates that the representation of any character takes place within a shifting field of narrative attention and obscurity Each individual whether the central figure or a radically subordinated one emerges as a character only through his or her distinct and contingent space within the narrative as a whole The character space as Woloch defines it marks the dramatic interaction between an implied person and his or her delimited position within a narrative structure The organization of and clashes between many character spaces within a single narrative totality is essential to the novel's very achievement and concerns striking at issues central to narrative poetics the aesthetics of realism and the dynamics of literary representation Woloch's discussion of character space allows for a different history of the novel and a new definition of characterization itself By making the implied person indispensable to our understanding of literary form this book offers a forward looking avenue for contemporary narrative theory
