Bowker, 2016-03-22

Matthew H Bowker offers a novel analysis of experience the vast and influential concept that has shaped Western social theory and political practice for the past half millennium While it is difficult to find a branch of modern thought science industry or art that has not relied in some way on the notion of experience in defining its assumptions or aims no study has yet applied a politically conscious and psychologically sensitive critique to the construct of experience Doing so reveals that most of the qualities that have been attributed to experience over the centuries particularly its unthinkability its correspondence with suffering and its occlusion of the self are part of unlikely fantasies or ideologies By analyzing a series of related cases including the experiential education movement the ascendancy of trauma theory the philosophy of the social contract and the psychological study of social isolation the book builds a convincing case that ideologies of experience are invoked not to keep us close to lived realities and things in themselves but rather to distort and destroy true knowledge of ourselves and others In spite of enduring admiration for those who may be called champions of experience such as Michel de Montaigne Ralph Waldo Emerson and others treated throughout the work the ideologies of experience ultimately discourage individuals and groups from creating resisting and changing our experience urging us instead to embrace trauma failure deprivation and self abandonment Portage Into the Past J.
