necessary because of the relationships between its material language and its subject matter reality Although present in oral literature these relationships are exposed in their full complexity with the rise of literature as a distinct form of writing Literature Against Fundamentalism argues that literature enables us to engage with reality in language and language in reality where both are mutually constitutive constantly changing and partly elusive Tabish Khair defines this mode of engagement as essentially an agnostic one resistant to simple dogma Hence literature can provide an antidote to fundamentalism Khair argues that reading literature as literature and not just as material for aesthetic sociological political and other theoretical discourses is essential for humanity In the process he offers a radical re definition of literature an illuminating engagement with religion and fundamentalism a revaluation of the relationship between the sciences and humanities and finally a call to literature as in a call to arms
