Night Rome William Harrison Ainsworth:

A Night in Rome William Harrison Ainsworth, 2020-09-28 It was a glorious sight to one unaccustomed to the imposing religious ceremonials of the Romish church to witness all the pomp and splendour displayed at this high solemnity to gaze down that glittering pile and mark the various ecclesiastical dignitaries each in their peculiar and characteristic costume employed in the ministration of their sacred functions and surrounded by a wide semicircle of the papal guards so stationed to keep back the crowd and who with their showy scarlet attire and tall halberds looked like the martial figures we see in the sketches of Callot Nor was the brilliant effect of this picture diminished by the sumptuous framework in which it was set Overhead flamed a roof resplendent with burnished gold before me rose a canopy supported by pillars of porphyry and shining with many coloured stones while on either hand were chapels devoted to some noble house and boasting each the marble memorial of a pope Melodious masses proper to the service were ever and anon chanted by the papal choir and overpowering perfume was diffused around by a hundred censers Subdued by the odours the music and the spectacle I sank into a state of dreamy enthusiasm during a continuance of which I almost fancied myself a convert to the faith of Rome and surrendered myself unreflectingly to an admiration of its errors As I gazed among the surrounding crowd the sight of so many prostrate figures all in attitudes of deepest devotion satisfied me of the profound religious impression of the ceremonial As elsewhere this feeling was not universal and as elsewhere likewise more zeal was exhibited by the lower than the higher classes of society and I occasionally noted amongst the latter the glitter of an eye or the flutter of a bosom not altogether agitated I suspect by holy aspirations Yet me thought on the whole I had never seen such abandonment of soul such prostration of spirit in my own colder clime and during the exercise of my own more chastened creed as that which in several instances I now beheld and I almost envied the poor maiden near me who abject upon the earth had washed away her sorrows and perhaps her sins in contrite tears

A Night's Adventure in Rome William Harrison Ainsworth, 2018-06-22 A Night's Adventure in Rome William Harrison Ainsworth Mark Twain once famously said there was but one solitary thing about the past worth remembering and that was the fact that it is past and can't be restored Well over recent years The British Library working with Microsoft has embarked on an ambitious programme to digitise its collection of 19th century books We are delighted to publish this classic book as part of our extensive Classic Library collection Many of the books in our collection have been out of print for decades and therefore have not been accessible to the general public The aim of our publishing program is to facilitate rapid access to this vast reservoir of literature and our view is that this is a significant literary work which deserves to be brought back into print after many decades The contents of the vast majority of titles in the Classic Library have been scanned from the original works To ensure a high quality product each title has been meticulously hand curated by our staff Our philosophy has been guided by a desire to provide the reader with a book that is as close as possible to ownership of the original work We hope that you will enjoy this wonderful classic work and that for
