

Question: I've been asked to give a presentation on the importance of the Internet in the workplace. I'm not a computer expert, but I do know a little about it. Can you help me?

Answer: Sure! The Internet is a great tool for the workplace. It can be used to communicate, collaborate, and share information. Here are some ways to use the Internet in the workplace:

- Communication: Use email, instant messaging, and video conferencing to stay connected with colleagues.
- Collaboration: Use shared drives and online collaboration tools to work together on projects.
- Information: Use search engines and online databases to find information quickly.
- Training: Use online courses and webinars to learn new skills.
- Marketing: Use social media and email newsletters to promote your company.

Remember, the Internet is a powerful tool, but it's important to use it responsibly and securely. Always use strong passwords and be careful of what you share online.

Anne Adams and Katrina Adams worked as volunteers in Ghana, West Africa. Anne and Katrina wanted to help the West African women provide better lives for themselves and for their children. In 1988, Anne and Katrina formed an organization called Global Mission. The purpose of Global Mission is to help the women of Ghana sell and export handcrafted products. In other words, Global Mission helps women open businesses in their countries. Anne and Katrina found and taught. The Ghana women are then given assistance in selling their goods to people and places around the world. (The women have visited our part of the United States organization. They are proud to show the things Ghana makes.)

All of the products made and sold by the Ghana women are sold at our school. Students work on to handcrafts on two new sites. Although the products are sold in shops and other such places as shops.

Ghana hand made products are made with a lot of love. The people are from their own homes, glass and wood. They are made with a lot of love. The people are from their own homes, glass and wood.
