Towards the Control of Oil Resources in the Caspian Region Mehdi Parvizi Amineh,1999 This book provides an introduction to the current struggle for control of the energy reserves in the Caspian region Russia Iran Turkmenistan Kazakhstan and Azerbaijan An intense competition has arisen between the following various actors for control of these energy reserves the advanced industrialised countries especially the United States and Europe and their backed Transnational Corporations on the one hand and the main regional powers Russia Turkey Iran and also China and Pakistan on the other This struggle is a characteristic of the post Cold War competition for the control and security of the most needed natural resources oil and gas which are concentrated in only a few regions in the world This makes the Caspian region to one of the most important geo political areas in the post Cold War era The question of the routes for exporting oil and gas from this land locked area is central to the export of the Caspian energy resources It evolves around various conflicts between the different forces involved in the Central Asian and the Caucasian regions For example ethnic conflicts such as the war in Nagorno Karabakh in Chechnya the PKK issue in Turkey or the Taliban rule in Afghanistan At the same time however other problems such as lack of infrastructure and technology and finding a solution for the Caspian s legal regime could be obstacles for the possible construction of pipelines Further the United States does not want Iran to become a dominant power in the region and therefore would reject any route passing through this country Turkey would like any outlets to run through its own country The pipeline through Russia up until now is the only existing pipeline structure for the transportation of energy resources from the Caspian region Therefore Russia has a strong interest in and influence over any alternative route being discussed At the same time the United States want to prevent Russia from regaining domination over the former southern republics of Central Asia and Caucasus once ruled by the Soviet Union By analysing these and other important aspects this book helps us understand how they contribute to the problematic of conflict and co operation around the energy resources in the Caspian region This introductory book is written to meet the needs of undergraduate students interested in post Soviet politics in Central Asia and Caucasus and is suitable for the general public interested in the contemporary politics of this area provides a clear challenge to both of these assumptions Their respective developmental trajectories since independence demonstrate not only that ownership structure can vary even across countries that share the same institutional legacy but also that this variation helps to explain the divergence in their subsequent fiscal regimes Chambers Global ,2004

Russian

Energy Security and Foreign Policy Adrian Dellecker, Thomas Gomart, 2011-05-03 This book provides an original and thoroughly academic analysis of the link between Russian energy and foreign policies in Eurasia as well as offering an interpretation of Russia's coherence on the international stage seeking to understand Russia and explain its behaviour. The authors analyse both energy and foreign policies together in order to better grasp their correlation and gain deeper understanding of broader geopolitical issues in Eurasia at a time when things could go either way towards producers or towards consumers. Questioning the concept of energy deterrence which aims to fuel uncertainty in Russia's relations with its partners as well as projecting its overall power on the international scene, this provocative volume seeks to stimulate debate on this very important issue. Assessing the weight that energy has in Russia's foreign policy and in its pursuit of power on the international stage, this book will be of interest to students and scholars of international relations, energy politics, geopolitics and Russian and Central Asian Studies.
