patients on dialysis Law and Religious Cultural Heritage in Europe Theodosios Tsivolas, 2014-07-22 This book examines in detail both historical and current legal concepts of religious cultural heritage within the context of the European continent. The latter group is primarily based on the variety of sacred cultural elements emanating from the different religious traditions of the peoples of Europe which are deemed worthy of protection and preservation due to their outstanding value in terms of their social cultural and religious significance. In view of this the study provides evidence of the European States' active involvement with their sacred cultural treasures on the basis of the political and legal foundations of neutrality and pluralism. Furthermore the book analyzes all relevant international legislative instruments i.e. the plethora of EU, EC and UNESCO norms as well as all major European legislative patterns in light of their significance for the aforementioned aspects of pluralism and neutrality. The interdisciplinary references listed at the end of each chapter provide an additional incentive for further reading on the subject matter. The most important finding to emerge from the study is that there is a shared legal ethos in Europe that imposes a duty of appropriate care concerning the vast variety of sacred cultural goods and the religious cultural heritage in general as an invaluable repository of European cultural capital. It also considers the sui generis nature of this capital like any other type of asset it may deteriorate or fade over time necessitating investment in its preservation or refurbishment nevertheless like no other this particular capital maintains a distinct cultural value as it contains an additional characteristic of sacredness expressed in the form of its religious character the latter being analyzed as a triptych of religious memory, religious aesthetics and religious beliefs. Roman Pottery in the Archaeological Record J. Theodore Peña, 2007-04-30 This book examines how Romans used their pottery and the implications of these practices on the archaeological record. It is organized around a flow model for the life cycle of Roman pottery that includes a set of eight distinct practices: manufacture, distribution, prime use, reuse, maintenance, recycling, discard, and reclamation. J. Theodore Peña evaluates how these practices operated, how they have shaped the archaeological record, and the implications of these processes on archaeological research through the examination of a wide array of archaeological, textual, representational, and comparative ethnographic evidence. The result is a rich portrayal of the dynamic that shaped the archaeological record of the ancient Romans that will be of interest to archaeologists, ceramicists, and students of material culture. International

Industrial Networks and Industrial Restructuring in Central and Eastern Europe S. Radosevic, Bert M. Sadowski, 2007-05-08 International Industrial Networks and Industrial Restructuring in Central and Eastern Europe analyses the role of international industrial networks in industrial restructuring and corporate growth in central Europe, Russia, and Ukraine. It shows that two distinct patterns of international industrial integration, domestic vs. foreign led modernisations, have developed in these two regions which have significant effects on patterns of growth and integration of these economies. International Industrial Networks and Industrial Restructuring in Central and Eastern Europe is based on a number of industry and firm case studies which are analysed and interpreted within the current international business and political economy literature The publication provides valuable insights to managers and policy makers who are interested in understanding different strategic options for business activity in Central and East European countries For the academic reader it offers a new perspective on international industrial networks in which theories on strategic management and on industry restructuring and corporate growth are merged into a new view of growth and transformation process The Automotive Industry and European Integration A. J. Jacobs,2019-08-07 This book chronicles the divergent growth trends in car production in Belgium and Spain It delves into how European integration high wages and the demise of GM and Ford led to plant closings in Belgium Next it investigates how lower wages and the expansion strategies of Western European automakers stimulated expansion in the Spanish auto industry Finally it offers three alternate scenarios regarding how further EU expansion and Brexit may potentially reshape the geographic footprint of European car production over the next ten years In sum this book utilizes history to help expand the knowledge of scholars and policymakers regarding how European integration and Brexit may impact future auto industry investment for all EU nations
