Mobile Media in the Asia-Pacific Larissa Hjorth, 2008-10-13 This century has been marked by the rapid and divergent uptake of mobile telephony throughout the world The mobile phone has become a poignant symbol for postmodernity and the attendant modes of global mobility and immobility Most notably the icon of the mobile phone is most palpable in the Asia Pacific in which a diversity of innovation and consumer practices reflecting gender and locality can be found Through the lens of gendered mobile media Mobile Media in the Asia Pacific provides insight into this phenomenon by focusing on case studies in Japan South Korea China and Australia Despite the ubiquity and multi layered nature of mobile media in the region the patterns of female consumption have received little attention in the growing literature on mobile communication globally Utilising ethnographic research conducted in the Asia Pacific over a six year period this book investigates the relationship between gender technology and various forms of mobility and immobility in the region This book outlines the emerging modes of gender performativity that makes the Asia Pacific region so distinct to other regions globally Mobile Media in the Asia Pacific is a fascinating read for students and scholars interested in new media and gender in the Asia Pacific region

Technomobility in China Cara Wallis, 2015-03-06 Winner of the 2014 Bonnie Ritter Book Award Winner of the 2013 James W Carey Media Research Award As unprecedented waves of young rural women journey to cities in China not only to work but also to see the world and gain some autonomy they regularly face significant institutional obstacles as well as deep seated anti rural prejudices Based on immersive fieldwork Cara Wallis provides an intimate portrait of the social cultural and economic implications of mobile communication for a group of young women engaged in unskilled service work in Beijing where they live and work for indefinite periods of time While simultaneously situating her work within the fields of feminist studies technology studies and communication theory Wallis explores the way in which the cell phone has been integrated into the transforming social structures and practices of contemporary China and the ways in which mobile technology enables rural young women a population that has been traditionally marginalized and deemed as backward and other to participate in and create culture allowing them to perform a modern rural urban identity In this theoretically rich and empirically grounded analysis Wallis provides original insight into the co construction of technology and subjectivity as well as the multiple forces that shape contemporary China Media Events Bianca Mitu, Stamatis Poulakidakos, 2016-05-23 Media Events A Critical Contemporary Approach proposes an interdisciplinary and multicultural approach of Dayan and Katz s theory of media events 1992 by applying it to contemporary situations The contributing authors come from a range of countries UK USA Mexico Germany Finland Italy Greece Portugal Ukraine and analyse the theory of media events from different perspectives incorporating social media and offering a re positioning of Dayan and Katz s theory of media events By bringing new perspectives into this field the proposed volume is an important contribution as it grounds the intervention and rethinking of the theory into further empirical research This volume has the potential to function as a cross generational link between one of the early classics of media and communication studies on the one hand and the present generation of researchers on the other Computers, Phones, and the Internet Robert Kraut, Malcolm Brynin, Sara Kiesler, 2006-07-06 During the past decade technology has become more pervasive encroaching more and more on our lives Computers cell phones and the internet have an enormous influence not only on how we function at work but also on how we communicate and interact outside the office Researchers have been documenting the effect that these types of technology have on individuals families and other social groups Their work addresses questions that relate to how people use computers cell phones and the internet how they integrate their use of new technology into daily routines and how family function social relationships education and socialization are changing as a result This research is being conducted in a number of countries by scientists from a variety of disciplines who publish in very different places The result is that it is difficult for researchers and students to get a current and coherent view of the research literature This book brings together the leading researchers currently investigating the impact of information and communication technology outside of the workplace Its goal is to develop a consolidated view of what we collectively know in this fast changing area to evaluate approaches to data collection and analysis and to identify future directions for research The book will appeal to professionals and students in social psychology human technology interaction sociology and communication Networks of Communication in South Africa R. Sooryamoorthy, 2017-06-15 Within a short period of time South Africa has made remarkable progress in the adoption of mobile and Internet technologies In this landmark study R Sooryamoorthy examines the development of communication patterns social contacts and networks in South Africa Based on pioneering quantitative and qualitative data he analyses trends in changing media use in Africa showing the development of the use of new media for communication by South Africans of all ages races and genders in relation to the development of media infrastructure its cost and government policy It shows how people use the media for communication purposes that affirm or break their social contacts and networks and how they apply media to establish re establish or maintain social relationships This book will be of interest to those researching the growth of communication technology in Africa as well as those involved in the wider fields of development studies and economics
