Snow, 2005-12-16 The introduction of anaesthesia to Victorian Britain marked a defining moment between modern medicine and earlier practices This book uses new information from John Snow s casebooks and London hospital archives to revise many of the existing historical assumptions about the early history of surgical anaesthesia By examining complex patterns of innovation reversals debate and geographical difference Stephanie Snow shows how anaesthesia became established as a routine part of British medicine A good death from the perspective of patients with severe illness and advance care planning (ACP) in patients near end-of-life Lisa Kastbom, 2021-03-23 Previous research has indicated that what constitutes a good death is heterogenic and complex although there are some recurrent themes and similarities regardless individual background factors Studies on advance care planning ACP i e making proactive plans regarding content of care and treatment limitations on nursing home NH patients are rare Positive effects of ACPs are shown but also that these often are lacking The overall aim with this thesis was to explore the perceptions of a good death from the perspective of patients with severe illness and to investigate from different perspectives experiences of ACP in a NH context In paper I patients with cancer in a palliative phase were interviewed on their perceptions of a good death Death was viewed as a process and previous experiences on the death of others influenced their own perceptions A good death was associated with living with the prospect of imminent death preparing oneself and others for one's death and dying comfortably e.g. without suffering with independence and with social relations intact. Some were comforted by their belief that death is predetermined and that after death there is something else. Others felt uncomfortable when they viewed death as the end of the existence. In paper II nurses and physicians were interviewed on their experiences of the factors that shape the ACP process in NHs. Exploration of the patient's preferences regarding content of care and treatment limitations was important as well as integration of the patient's preferences and the views of the family members and staff concerning these questions. ACP documentation had to be clear, updated and available for staff and the implementation and reevaluation of ACP were also considered important according to the participants. Significance of clinicians perceiving beneficence as well as fear of accusations of maleficence were shown to be essential factors to contemplate. In a retrospective chart review paper III medical records of 367 deceased NH patients were analysed. A high prevalence of ACP was shown using two different definitions of ACP: ACP I and ACP II. Moreover, adherence to the ACP content was strong and positive associations were seen between ACP and variables of the three research aims such as diagnosis dementia, physician attendance at NH and end of life EOL care. In paper IV family members of deceased NH patients were interviewed on their experiences of ACP in NHs. EOL issues were challenging to talk about although the family members appreciated staff raising these questions. The patient's preferences were sometimes explicitly or implicitly communicated. However, in some cases family members had a feeling of the patient's preferences although they had not been clearly communicated. Everyday details symbolised staff commitment. The family members viewed the nurse as central. The physician was described as absent and ACP meetings often went unnoticed. Both involvement and lack of involvement could cause the family members' feelings of guilt. In conclusion, we found that what constitutes a good death is highly individual although recurrent themes are seen. EOL conversations are important and challenging and need staff training and experience. It seems important to support healthcare staff not only to initiate ACP in NH patients but also to involve the patient and family members in the ACP and planning EOL care. Making proactive plans regarding content of care including treatment limitations could enable patient autonomy, optimise the chances for the patient to experience a good death and enhance for the family members during the dying trajectory and after the patient's death.

Assholes to Angels T.E. Corner, 2021-06-16. Recognizing the shared nature of my thoughts I am determined to see I would look upon the witnesses that show me the thinking of the world has been changed. I would behold the proof that what has been done through me has enabled love to replace fear, laughter to replace tears and abundance to replace loss. A Course in Miracles Foundation for Inner Peace 2007. ACIM W 54.5.2.4. After two decades in the financial services industry Wayne Renroc worked his way up through the ranks into a leadership position at Pigeon Financial until he walked away from it all. Wayne had grown tired of the toxicity in the workplace. A self-serving inept and mindless leadership team at Pigeon Financial destroyed employee morale and fostered a growing dysfunction among peers which fueled his desire to move on. Managing with an iron fist in a self serving egotistical and mindless approach to the workplace their toxic ways spread like a cancer Like the disease these tyrants are so stupid and self centered they will not only destroy the morale of their teams healthy cells but will ultimately destroy themselves and the entire organization the host body This is a compelling glimpse into the corporate world bringing to the surface growing disconnects and dysfunction in the workplace Assholes to Angels calls out the tyrants who remain in positions of leadership The many parallels between behaviors on the playground during our childhood and behaviors in the boardroom during our adult years are brought to the surface Readers will learn a new definition of success based on the words of Albert Einstein from a century ago Finally readers will discover a way to see the angel deep within each of us Assholes to Angels was written to honor and celebrate the true leaders who have left the working world a better place Instead of stepping on and over people to get ahead true leaders show people how to stand on the shoulders of giants to succeed www.tomcorner.net www.assholestoangels.com Line Upon Line Clp99560,2012-05-09

Liberalism with Excellence Matthew H. Kramer, 2017 During the past several decades political philosophers have frequently clashed with one another over the question whether governments are morally required to remain neutral among reasonable conceptions of excellence and human flourishing Whereas the numerous followers of John Rawls and kindred philosophers such as Ronald Dworkin have maintained that a requirement of neutrality is indeed incumbent on every system of governance other philosophers often designated as perfectionists have argued against the existence of such a requirement Liberalism with Excellence enters these debates not by plighting itself unequivocally to one side or the other but instead by reconceiving each of the sides and thus by redirecting the debates that have occurred between them On the one hand the book rejects the requirement of neutrality by contending that certain subsidies for the promotion of excellence in sundry areas of human endeavour can be proper and vital uses of resources by governments Advocating such departures from the constraint of neutrality the book presents a version of liberalism that can rightly be classified as perfectionist On the other hand the species of perfectionism espoused in Liberalism with Excellence diverges markedly from the theories that have usually been so classified Indeed much of the book assails various aspects of those theories What is more the aspirational perfectionism elaborated in the closing chapters of the volume is reconcilable in most key respects with a suitably amplified version of Rawlsianism Hence by reconceiving both the perfectionist side and the neutralist side of the prevailing disputation Liberalism with Excellence combines and transforms their respective insights

Rigid Designation and Theoretical Identities Joseph LaPorte, 2013 Joseph LaPorte offers an original account of the connections between the reference of words for properties and kinds and theoretical identity statements He argues that terms for properties as well as for concrete objects are rigid designators and defends the Kripkean tradition of theoretical identities
