Fluorinated Coatings and Finishes Handbook Laurence W. McKeen, 2015-10-11 Fluorinated Coatings and Finishes Handbook The Definitive User's Guide Second Edition addresses important frequently posed questions by end user design engineers, coaters and coatings suppliers on fluorinated coatings and finishes, thus enabling them to achieve superior product qualities and shorter product and process development times. The book provides broad coverage of these fluorinated polymer coatings including the best known PTFE (polytetrafluoroethylene) first trademarked as Teflon and ePTFE (GoreTex). Their inherent qualities of low surface tension, non-stick, low friction, high melting point and chemical inertness make fluoropolymer coatings widely desirable across thousands of industrial and consumer applications, but these properties also make it difficult to convert fluoropolymers to coatings that have sufficient adhesion to the substrate to be protected. In this book, readers learn how fluoropolymer coatings are used and made, about their pigments and fillers, binders, dispersion processes, additives and solvents. The book includes substrate preparation, coating properties, baking and curing processes, performance tests, applications and health and safety. Provides a practical handbook that covers the theory and practice of fluorinated coatings including the structure and properties of binders and how to get a non-stick coating to stick to the substrate. Covers liquid and powder fluorocoatings, their applications, methods, curing and baking processes and their commercial end uses. Presents detailed discussions of testing methods related to fluorocoatings, common coating defects, how they form, how to eliminate them and the health and safety aspects of using and applying fluorocoatings. Includes substrate preparation, coating properties, baking and curing processes, performance tests, applications and health and safety.

The Next Generation of Electric Power Unit Commitment Models Benjamin F. Hobbs, Michael H. Rothkopf, Richard P. O'Neill, Hung-po Chao, 2006-04-11.

Over the years, the electric power industry has been using optimization methods to help them solve the unit commitment problem The result has been savings of tens and perhaps hundreds of millions of dollars in fuel costs Things are changing however Optimization technology is improving and the industry is undergoing radical restructuring Consequently the role of commitment models is changing and the value of the improved solutions that better algorithms might yield is increasing The dual purpose of this book is to explore the technology and needs of the next generation of computer models for aiding unit commitment decisions Because of the unit commitment problem s size and complexity and because of the large economic benefits that could result from its improved solution considerable attention has been devoted to algorithm development in the book More systematic procedures based on a variety of widely researched algorithms have been proposed and tested These techniques have included dynamic programming branch and bound mixed integer programming MIP linear and network programming approaches and Benders decomposition methods among others Recently metaheuristic methods have been tested such as genetic programming and simulated annealing along with expert systems and neural networks Because electric markets are changing rapidly how UC models are solved and what purposes they serve need reconsideration Hence the book brings together people who understand the problem and people who know what improvements in algorithms are really possible The two fold result in The Next Generation of Electric Power Unit Commitment Models is an assessment of industry needs and new formulations and computational approaches that promise to make unit commitment models more responsive to those needs
