Interactive Petrophysics 4.0

Interactive Petrophysics (IP4.0) was developed by a petrophysicist with a view to assist all petrophysicists want to work, but never thought possible! The software is offered by design - fast, accurate, versatile and just as portable. It is not only suitable for academic work, ideal for both students when doing work to quantify things, their big data, and experienced petrophysicists who are able to carry out multi-core, multi-user petrophysical data analysis.

It is truly unique in its approach to petrophysics. For the expert user IP offers some of the most sophisticated interpretation modules in the industry, such as:

- Mineral Suite - enables the most complicated models to be used
- Monte Carlo simulation - enables the user to fully understand and quantify the errors associated with a complete interpretation workflow
- Saturation range modelling module - facilitates the creation of the functions using core capillary pressure data and/or log
