Understanding How Consumer Behavior Changes Johnny Ch Lok, 2020-09-19 In consumption psychological view point the current approach is the term dialectics considers all forms of human behavior thus the current approach to the study of consumer divided into four approaches materialism approach implies that consumer behavior is shaped by the material environment e g money possessions etc change approach means consumer behavior is dynamic in nature it is always in a process of continuous motion transformation and change Totality means consumption behavior is interconnected with other forms of human contradiction means views changes in consumer behavior as arising from their internal contradictions like moods emoting etc The approach studies the consumer as a complex total whole and views consumer purchase as well as consumption processes The current approach to studying consumer behavior uses both the quantitative as well as qualitative approaches There are three broad research perspectives in consumer behavior they are as follows Decision making perspective the experiment perspective and behavioral influence perspective According to decision making perspective the buying process is a sequential in nature with the consumer perceiving that there exists a problem and that moving across a series of logical and rational steps to solve the problem stages being problem recognition information search evaluation of alternatives purchase decision and past purchase behavior it emphasizes rational logical and cognitive approach to consumer decision making and purchase process The experiential perspective believes that not all buying may be rational and logical in some cases buying results are from a consumers desire for fun and fantasy pleasures emotions and moods The perspective emphasizes that consumers are feelers as well as thinkers The behavioral influence perspective holds that forces in the environment stimulate a consumer to make purchases without developing beliefs and attitudes about the product In general quantitative research is used by the positivists and qualitative research is used by interpretivists How to use quantitative research in consumer behavior It comprises i research techniques that are used to gather quantitative data over large samples randomly and ii statistical tools and techniques e g survey observation and experiments techniques Thus type of research is descriptive in nature It is primarily used by the positivists when studying consumer behavior with a focus on prediction of consumer behavior and techniques are also used by dialectics approach How to use qualitative research in consumer behavior It comprises i

research techniques that are used to gather quantitative data over small samples techniques e.g. depth interviews focus group of study is subjective in nature The focus is on understanding consumption behavior and consumption pattern the objective is to gain an understanding of consumer behavior and the causes marketing situations are unique and hence the finding can't be generalized to marketing situations It is primarily used by the interpretivists when studying consumer behavior However the qualitative techniques are also used by the dialectics approach Today both approaches are used to study consumer behavior In some cases qualitative research may act as an indicator to qualitative research through case studies and other qualitative measures Qualitative research is very often a prelude to quantitative research are used to prepare scales for surveys and experiments Brand image attention of behavioral consumption of prediction method

Perspectives on Consumer Behaviour Włodzimierz Sroka, 2020-06-26 This book explores key factors associated with consumer behaviour from both a theoretical and practical perspective It particularly focuses on the consumer in the 21st century educated and conscious but also impatient disloyal and capricious The book is divided into three main parts the first part discusses the theoretical and legal aspects of consumers behaviour analysing the government's role in regulating consumer behaviour and the role of the European Union The second part then examines organisational strategies such as omnichannel retailing and branding products And lastly the third part describes consumer behaviours in the context of individual products and services from coffee to energy

Perspectives on Methodology in Consumer Research David Brinberg, Richard J. Lutz, 2012-12-06 Methodological advances in consumer behavior are increasing rapidly We can characterize these advances by work in two logically separate but functionally related areas a the philosophical underpinnings of our methods and b the analytic strategies for examining the phenomena of interest in the field An important aspect in communicating these advances is the demonstration of their use on focal problems in consumer behavior Current research strategies and analytic techniques in the field of consumer research reflect the dominant logical empiricist epistemology The development of new epistemologies e.g. scientific relativism hypothetical realism however is likely to modify the dominant logical empiricist approach and is also likely to influence the analytic strategies used to conduct research For instance with the increased awareness of scientific relativism and hypothetical realism greater emphasis is anticipated for idiographic rather than nomothetic designs for observational rather than experimental designs for process rather than static analyses and for more sophisticated techniques for summarizing findings across studies The major theme underlying this volume is that conceptual analytic and substantive diversity are essential for consumer behavior research to advance Collectively the chapters we present in this volume are a diverse set of perspectives for the study of consumer behavior This volume is organized into three parts 1 philosophical orientations toward consumer behavior research 2 analytic strategies for consumer behavior research and 3 applications of these orientations and strategies to current research areas
