Words for Odours Melissa Barkat-Defradas, Elisabeth Motte-Florac, 2016-06-22 While the human sense of smell has long been considered underdeveloped there is nonetheless a growing body of literature to attest to its remarkable importance in human behaviour However there has been very little work conducted in linguistics which is all the more regrettable as economic globalization has made it increasingly useful to communicate on odours in a variety of domains such as the wine and perfume industries This volume brings together a number of studies on how olfactory experiences are verbalized applying both pragmatic and theoretical approaches to better understanding the different strategies speakers use to talk of odours Four major themes are investigated here Part I From Olfactory Perception to Verbalisation examines the various complex cognitive operations implemented in the process of olfactory perception Explorations of recollection processes also crucial for odour verbalization provide important insights into how cultural conditions contribute to shaping olfactory memories Part II Categories and Hedonic Valence focuses on how speakers circumvent paucity in vocabulary to describe odours in a variety of ways Sorting operations make it possible to either select an appropriate linguistic label for a given odour or to compensate for the lack thereof by using consistent descriptions Indeed although such cognitive operations are influenced by a subject's environment cultural representations and goals the contributions to this section show that hedonic value is crucial for categorizing odours Part III Lexical and Cultural Variation illustrates that some languages spoken on the African continent such as the Arabic and Bantu languages are relatively rich in their olfactory lexicon thereby revealing the greater attention paid to odours in these societies That being said such relative richness or paucity can be modulated through a variety of mechanisms which shape the linguistic output as exemplified in Part IV Putting Odours into Words where the olfactory lexicons of two Indo European languages French and Greek are analysed from a comparative perspective

Tanzanian Affairs ,2007      Lexicography Salonee Priya,2009 Lexicography is a realm of growing academic specialization Dictionaries map meaning onto use We have innumerable dictionaries on different subjects and for different purposes which we keep referring to time and again Despite the frequency with which dictionaries are unquestioningly consulted many have little idea of what actually goes into making them or how meanings are definitively ascertained We have become so accustomed to using dictionaries that we fail to take notice of the effort and time spent in their making Understanding the finer nuances of the art of dictionary making will be of interest to everyone With changing times and the penetration of technology the bulkier forms of dictionaries have given way to softer forms This book updates the reader to the changing notions of the lexicon and dictionary making in the new realm of modern technology and newer electronic tools The book introduces us to lexicography and leads us to dictionaries for general and specific purposes It examines dictionary compilation and research and enables compilers users educators and publishers to look anew at the art of lexicography It duly takes into account the fact that dictionaries are meant to fulfill the needs of specific user groups and reflects the same in the chapters devoted to various professional dictionaries which have recently achieved widespread recognition in the lexicographical literature A good read for students of linguistics teachers and translators apart from general readers interested in knowing the intricate art of making a dictionary
