Diverse Economies and Food Democracy: Implications for Sustainability from an Interdisciplinary Perspective

Andreas Exner,Andreas Mayer, Moya Kneafsey,2025-09-26 In view of the multifaceted challenge of transforming towards inclusive and sustainable food systems scholars have drawn attention to diverse economies of food such as food coops community supported agriculture urban community gardens or fair trade Diverse economies of food have been labeled in various ways The notion of alternative agro food networks AFN has gained the broadest appeal in this regard However this notion and similar ones have been criticized on a conceptual level and the assumption that diverse economies of food may substantially contribute to the sustainable transformation of food systems has been questioned on theoretical methodological and political grounds Although food democracy is recurrently mentioned in relation to diverse economies of food a proper operationalization of this concept is largely missing as well as robust quantifications of the sustainability implications of those By focusing on food democracy as forms of joint decision making by food producers consumers public authorities and stakeholders on various scales diverse economies of food can be clarified conceptually and the environmental impacts quantified as well as trade offs and synergies assessed This allows us to investigate more precisely the possible sustainability and transformative impacts of diverse economies of food

INTERACT 2015 Adjunct Proceedings Christoph Beckmann, Tom Gross, 2015-09-15

Innovation and Creativity in Tourism, Business and Social Sciences Vicky Katsoni, Carlos Costa, 2025-06-03 This book is the first volume of the proceedings of the 11th International Conference of the International Association of Cultural and Digital Tourism IACuDiT Focusing on Innovation and Creativity in Tourism Business and Social Sciences the conference was held from September 3 to 5 2024 in Naxos Greece The book showcases the latest research on tourism business technology and the social sciences and presents a critical academic discourse on ICT adoption in the social sciences regional development sustainability and tourism experience smart and sustainable practices innovations in museum interpretation and collections management emerging and disruptive technologies gaming gamification and augmented reality and other topical aspects in business and the social sciences The book discusses these digital transformation processes from various standpoints including its effect on the social sciences combined with specific forms of tourism The impact of digitalization encourages the emergence of new digital products and services based on the principle of flexibility The book focuses on the knowledge economy and the smart destinations concepts and highlights new modes of tourism management and development while further chapters address emerging technologies such as the Internet of Things AI big data and robotics in a range of tourism practices Local Responses to Mine

Closure in South Africa Sethulego Matebesi, Lochner Marais, Verna Nel, 2024-02-12 This book investigates mine closure and local responses in South Africa linking dependencies and social disruption Mine closure presents a major challenge to the mining industry and government policymakers globally but particularly in the Global South South Africa is experiencing notable numbers of mine closures and this book explores the notion of social disruption a concept often applied to describe the effects of mine growth on communities but often neglecting the impact of mine closures The book begins with three theoretical chapters that discuss theory closure cost frameworks and policy development in South Africa It uses evolutionary governance theory to show how mining creates dependencies and how mining growth often blinds communities and governments to the likelihood of closure Too easily mining goes ahead with no concern for the possibility or indeed inevitability of eventual closure and how mining communities will cope These impacts are showcased through eight place based case studies from across South Africa one focusing on mine workers to demonstrate that mine closure causes significant social disruption This book will be of interest to students and scholars researching the social impacts of mining and the extractive industries social geography and sustainable development as well as policymakers and practitioners working with mine closure and social impact assessments Crisis Management, Destination Recovery and Sustainability

James Kennell, Priyakrushna Mohanty, Anukrati Sharma, Azizul Hassan, 2022-12-29 The COVID 19 pandemic brought travel to a halt and the global tourism industry has been one of the sectors hit hardest during the pandemic This book looks at how the tourism industry can enhance its resilience and prepare for future crises more effectively The book provides insights into the economic social geopolitical and environmental implications of the COVID 19 pandemic on the tourism and hospitality industries and the responses in diverse international contexts It highlights key concepts and includes cases with real life applications The book also discusses future research directions in a post pandemic scenario This book will be an invaluable resource for practitioners in the areas of tourism and crisis management and for readers to compare and contrast tourism destination recovery and crisis management practices through different research methodologies and settings Economics of South African Townships Sandeep Mahajan, 2014-08-25 Countries everywhere are divided within into two distinct spatial realms one urban one rural Classic models of development predict faster growth in the urban sector causing rapid migration from rural areas to cities lifting average incomes in both places The situation in South Africa throws up an unconventional challenge The country has symptoms of a spatial realm that is not not rural not fully urban lying somewhat in limbo This is the realm of the country's townships and informal settlements T IS In many ways the townships and especially the informal settlements are similar to developing world slums although never was a slum formed with as much central planning and purpose as were some of the larger South African townships And yet there is something distinct about the T IS For one thing unlike most urban slums most T IS are geographically distant from urban economic centers Exacerbated by the near absence of an affordable public transport system this makes job seeking and other forms of economic integration prohibitively expensive Motivated by their uniqueness and their special place in South African economic and social life this study seeks to develop a systematic understanding of the structure of the township economy What emerges is a rich information base on the migration patterns to T IS changes in their demographic profiles their labor market characteristics and their access to public and financial services The study then look closely at Diepsloot a large township in the Johannesburg Metropolitan Area to bring out more vividly the economic realities and choices of township residents Given the current dichotomous urban structure modernizing the township economy and enabling its convergence with the much richer urban centers has the potential to unleash significant productivity gains Breaking out of the current low level equilibrium however will require a comprehensive and holistic policy agenda with significant complementarities among the major policy reforms While the study tells a rich and coherent story about development patterns in South African townships and points to some broad policy directions its research and analysis will generally need to be deepened before being translated into direct policy action
