Lynn Cain, 2017-05-15 Drawing on a wide range of Dickens's writings including all of his novels and a selection of his letters journalism and shorter fiction Dickens Family Authorship provides a provocative account of the evolution of an author from whose psychological honesty and imaginative generosity emerged precocious fictional portents of Freudian and post Freudian theory The decade 1843 1853 was pivotal in Dickens's career A phase of feverish activity on both personal and professional fronts it included the irrevocable souring of his relations with his parents the peripatetic residence in continental Europe and a massive proliferation of writing and editing activities including the aborted autobiography It was a period of astounding creativity which consolidated Dickens's authorial and financial stature It was also one tainted by loss the deaths of his father sister and daughter and the alarming desertion of his early facility for composition Lynn Cain's substantial study of the four novels produced during this turbulent decade Martin Chuzzlewit Dombey and Son David Copperfield and Bleak House traces the evolution of Dickens's creative imagination to discover in the modulating fictional representation of family relationships a paradigm for his authorial development Closely argued readings demonstrate a reorientation from a patriarchal to a maternal dynamic which signals a radical shift in Dickens's creative technique Interweaving critical analysis of the four novels with biography and the linguistic and psychoanalytic writings of modern theorists especially Kristeva and Lacan Lynn Cain explores the connection between Dickens's susceptibility to depression during this period and his increasingly self-conscious exploitation of his own mental states in his fiction Reading Dickens

The Dog in the Dickensian Imagination Beryl Gray,2016-03-23 Fascinated by them unable to ignore them and imaginatively stimulated by them Charles Dickens was an acute and unsentimental reporter on the dogs he kept and encountered during a time when they were a burgeoning part of the nineteenth century urban and domestic scene As dogs inhabited Dickens s city so too did they populate his fiction journalism and letters In the first book length work of criticism on Dickens s relationship to canines Beryl Gray shows that dogs real and invented were intrinsic to Dickens s vision and experience of London and to his representations of its life Gray draws on an array of reminiscences by Dickens s friends family and fellow writers and also situates her book within the context of nineteenth century attitudes towards dogs as revealed in the periodical press newspapers and institutional archives Integral to her study is her analysis of Dickens s texts in relationship to their illustrations by George Cruikshank and Hablot Knight Browne and to portraiture by late eighteenth and nineteenth century artists like Thomas Gainsborough and Edwin Landseer The Dog in the Dickensian Imagination will not only enlighten readers and critics of Dickens and those interested in his life but will serve as an important resource for scholars interested in the Victorian city the treatment of animals in literature and art and attitudes towards animals in nineteenth century Britain

Oulton,2002-12-13 This book places Dickens and Wilkie Collins against such important figures as John Henry Newman and George Eliot in seeking to recover their response to the religious controversies of mid nineteenth century England While much recent criticism has tended to overlook or dismiss their religious pronouncements this book foregrounds the religious strategies nineteenth century authors used to justify the ideal of same sex romantic friendship and the anxieties these strategies reveal Informed by recent insights into the erotic potential of such relationships but focused on romantic friendship as an independent and fully formulated ideal Oulton departs from other critics who view romantic friendship as either nebulous and culturally naive or an invocation of homoerotic responsiveness By considering both male and female friendships Oulton uncovers surprising parallels between them in novels and poetry by authors such as Dickens Tennyson Disraeli Charlotte Bront and Braddon Oulton also examines conduct manuals periodicals and religious treatises tracing developments from mid century to the fin de siècle when romantic friendship first came under serious attack Her book is a persuasive challenge to those who view mid Victorian England existing in a state of blissful pre Freudian innocence as unproblematically accommodating of passionate same sex relationships Circular ,1927 Fictions of Home Martin

Mühlheim,2018-04-23 This study aims to counter right wing discourses of belonging It discusses key theoretical concepts for the study of home focusing in particular on Marxist feminist postcolonial and psychoanalytic contributions The book also
