professional learning program consisting of five modules on leadership and the teaching of reading to implementation action in their schools. It describes how they applied a range of strategies to create leadership partnerships with their teachers pursuing eight related dimensions from a Leadership for Learning framework or blueprint. The early chapters of the book feature the use of practical tools as a focus for leadership activity. These chapters consider for example how principals and teachers can develop deeper understandings of their schools' contexts, how professional discussions can be conducted with a process called disciplined dialogue, and how principals might encourage approaches to shared leadership with their teachers. The overall findings presented in this book emphasise five positive positions on leadership for learning: to read the importance of an agreed moral purpose, sharing leadership for improvement, understanding what learning to read involves, implementing and evaluating reading interventions, and recognising the need for support for leaders learning on the job.

Art Education and Creative Aging Melanie Davenport, Linda Hoeptner Poling, Rébecca Bourgault, Marjorie Cohee
Manifold, 2024-04-01 This text explores how art education can meaningfully address the needs of older adults as learners, makers, and teachers of art in formal and informal settings. It combines perspectives of museum educators, teacher preparation professors, art therapists, teaching artists, and older artists on what is meant by Creative Aging and the ways art education can support the health and well-being of this population. Most importantly, the book discusses what the field of art education can gain from older adult learners and creators. Chapters are organized into five sections: Creatively Aging, Meeting Older Adults' Unique Needs, Intergenerational Art Education, Engaging Older Adults With Artworks and Objects, and In Our Own Voices: Older Adults as Learners, Makers, and Teachers. Within each section, contributors investigate themes critical to art education within aging populations, such as memory loss, disability, coping with life transitions, lifelong learning, intergenerational relationships, and personal narrative. The final section focuses on accounts from older adult artists, educators offering insights and proposing new directions for growing older creatively. Though ideal for art education faculty and students in graduate and undergraduate settings, as well as art education scholars and those teaching in multigenerational programs within community settings, this book is an expansive resource for any artist, student, or scholar interested in the links among health, well-being, and arts participation for older adults.

Contributing authors present detailed case examples of successful MTSS implementation in three states. In a large size format with lay-flat binding, the book features 27 reproducible checklists and evaluation tools.
