New Strategies For Americas Watersheds:

New Strategies for America's Watersheds National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Commission on Geosciences, Environment and Resources, Committee on Watershed Management, 1999-04-28 Emergence of a toxic organism like Pfiesteria in tributaries of the Chesapeake Bay has focused public attention on potential hazards in our water. More importantly it has reminded us of the importance of the entire watershed to the health of any body of water and how political boundaries complicate watershed management. New Strategies for America's Watersheds provides a timely and comprehensive look at the rise of watershed thinking among scientists and policymakers and recommends ways to steer the nation toward improved watershed management. The volume defines important terms, identifies fundamental issues, and explores reasons why now is the time to bring watersheds to the forefront of ecosystem management. In a discussion of scale and scope, the committee examines how to expand the watershed from a topographic unit to a framework for integrating natural, social, and economic perspectives as they share the same geographic space. The volume discusses regional variations in climate, topography, demographics, institutions, land use, culture, and law. Roles and interaction of federal, state, and local agencies. Availability or lack of pertinent data. Options for financing. The committee identifies critical points in watershed planning to ensure appropriate stakeholder involvement and integration of science, policy, and environmental ethics. New Strategies for America's Watersheds National Research Council, Committee on Watershed Management, Division On Earth And Life Studies, 1999-04 Emergence of a toxic organism like Pfiesteria in tributaries of the Chesapeake Bay has focused public attention on potential hazards in our water. Government policies often fail to promote such collaboration. But if designed properly, they can do much to strengthen civic engagement. That is the central message of Carmen Sirianni's eloquent new book Rather than encourage citizens to engage in civic activity government often puts obstacles in their way Many agencies treat citizens as passive clients rather than as community members overlooking their ability to mobilize assets and networks to solve problems Many citizen initiatives run up against rigid rules and bureaucratic silos causing all but the most dedicated activists to lose heart The unfortunate and unnecessary result is a palpable decline in the quality of civic life Fortunately growing numbers of policymakers across the country are figuring out how government can serve as a partner and catalyst for collaborative problem solving Investing in Democracy details three such success stories neighborhood planning in Seattle youth civic engagement programs in Hampton Virginia and efforts to develop civic environmentalism at the U S Environmental Protection Agency The book explains what measures were taken and why they succeeded It distills eight core design principles that characterize effective collaborative governance and concludes with concrete recommendations for federal policy

New and Forthcoming Books National Academy Press (U.S.),1993 Land Stewardship through Watershed Management Peter F. Ffolliott, Malchus B. Baker, Carelton B. Edminster, Madelyn C. Dillon, Karen L. Mora, 2012-12-06 We must enhance the effectiveness of land stewardship and management of the world's natural resources to meet a growing global population's need for conservation sustainable development and use of land water and other natural resources Ecosystem based multiple use land stewardship is necessary when considering the present and future uses of land water and other natural resources on an operationally efficient scale We need holistically planned and carefully implemented watershed management practices projects and programs to accommodate the increasing demand for commodities and amenities clear water open space and uncluttered landscapes An international conference in Tucson Arizona from March 13 to 16 2000 examined these needs and increased people's awareness of the contributions that ecosystem based multiple use watershed management can make to future land stewardship The conference was sponsored by the School of Renewable Natural Resources University of Arizona the College of Agriculture University of Arizona the Rocky Mountain Research Station USDA Forest Service the Research Center for Conservation of Water Resources and Disaster Prevention National Chung Hsing University Taiwan the Department of Forest Resources University of Minnesota the Center for Integrated Natural Resources and Agriculture Management University of Minnesota the Centro de Investigaciones Biologicas del Noreste Mexico the International Arid Lands Consortium the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service the Bureau of Land Management of the Department of the Interior the Salt River Project Phoenix Arizona the Southern Arizona Chapter Southwestern Section of the Society of American Foresters and IUFRO Working Party 8 04 04 Erosion Control by Watershed Management Water for Life James L. Wescoat, Jr, Gilbert F. White, 2003-10-16 Successful water management is crucial for the proper operation of natural environmental systems and for the support of human society These two aspects are interdependent but decisions about one are often made without regard to effects upon the other A persistent challenge is to consider them together This book fully analyzes the relationship between water management environmental conditions and public policy It combines a careful review of the character and evolution of water management and evaluates management from the standpoint of the quality of the natural environment Topics covered include domestic and industrial water supply and waste disposal groundwater use river channel and floodplain management and integrated river basins The processes of social decision making are examined against a backdrop of plant soil water ecosystem relationships and ecosystem change Examples are drawn from around the world from local watershed management to international river basin planning with emphasis on integrative approaches

Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century Gary L. Gaile, Cort J. Willmott, 2005 Geography in America at the Dawn of the 21st Century surveys American geographers current research in their specialty areas and tracks trends and innovations in the many subfields of geography As such it is both a state of the discipline assessment and a topical reference It includes an introduction by the editors and 47 chapters each on a specific specialty The authors of each chapter were chosen by their specialty group of the American Association of Geographers AAG Based on a process of review and revision the chapters in this volume have become truly representative of the recent scholarship of American geographers While it focuses on work since 1990 it additionally includes related prior work and work by non American geographers The initial Geography in America was published in 1989 and has become a benchmark reference of American geographical research during the 1980s This latest volume is completely new and features a preface written by the eminent geographer Gilbert White

The State of Nonprofit America Lester M Salamon, 2012-05-14 Today America's nonprofit organizations seem caught in a force field buffeted by four impulses voluntarism professionalism civic activism and commercialism Too little attention however has been paid to the significant tensions among these impulses Understanding this force field and the factors shaping its dynamics thus becomes central to understanding the future of particular organizations and of the nonprofit sector as a whole In this second edition of an immensely successful volume Lester Salamon and his colleagues offer an overview of the current state of America's nonprofit sector examining the forces that are shaping its future and identifying the changes that might be needed The State of Nonprofit America has been completely revised and updated to reflect changing political realities and the punishing economic climate currently battering

the nonprofit sector which faces significant financial challenges during a time when its services are needed more than ever The result is a comprehensive analysis of a set of institutions that Alexis de Tocqueville recognized to be more deserving of our attention than any other part of the American experiment The Watershed Project Management Guide Thomas E. Davenport, 2002-08-28 A key question for individuals involved in managing watersheds is What is an effective process that will integrate science policy and public participation in order to help manage water resources effectively Outlining a new four step process that supports adaptive management The Watershed Project Management Guide explores an innovative approach for addressing complex water and related management issues Integrating science policy and public opinion this four phased approach will assist watershed practitioners develop a plan consistent with the recently released USDA EPA Watershed Management Planning and Implementation Process guidance This process can be used to implement a management strategy to meet the load allocations required by an approved Total Maximum Daily Load TMDL the goals of a Source Water Protection Plan USDA programs such as EQIP or Section 319 Project Resolving Water Conflicts Workbook Lynette de Silva, Chris Maser, 2021-11-25 This book works to build trust consensus and capacity to enhance understanding through a water conflict management framework designed to bolster collaborative skills Built on case studies analysis and hands on real life applications it addresses issues of water insecurity of marginalized systems and communities global water viability institutional resilience and the inclusion of faith based traditions for climate action The authors assess the complexities of climate challenges and explain how to create sustainable effective and efficient water approaches for an improved ecological and socioeconomic future within the UN s Sustainable Development Goals Riparian Areas National Research Council, Division on Earth and Life Studies, Board on Environmental Studies and Toxicology, Water Science and Technology Board, Committee on Riparian Zone Functioning and Strategies for Management, 2002-10-10 The Clean Water Act CWA requires that wetlands be protected from degradation because of their important ecological functions including maintenance of high water quality and provision of fish and wildlife habitat However this protection generally does not encompass riparian areas the lands bordering rivers and lakes even though they often provide the same functions as wetlands Growing recognition of the similarities in wetland and riparian area functioning and the differences in their legal protection led the NRC in 1999 to undertake a study of riparian areas which has culminated in Riparian Areas Functioning and Strategies for Management The report is intended to heighten awareness of riparian areas commensurate with their ecological and societal values The primary conclusion is that because riparian areas perform a disproportionate number of biological and physical functions on a unit area basis restoration of riparian functions along America s waterbodies should be a national goal Hydrology and the Management of Watersheds Kenneth N. Brooks, Peter F. Ffolliott, Joseph A. Magner, 2012-12-26 This new edition is a major revision of the popular introductory reference on hydrology and watershed management principles methods and applications The book s content and scope have been improved and condensed with updated chapters on the management of forest woodland rangeland agricultural urban and mixed land use watersheds Case studies and examples throughout the book show practical ways to use web sites and the Internet to acquire data update methods and models and apply the latest technologies to issues of land and water use and climate variability and change

Riparian Areas of the Southwestern United States Peter F. Ffolliott, Leonard F. DeBano, 2003-07-28 Riparian Areas of the Southwestern United States Hydrology Ecology and Management provides hydrologists watershed managers land use planners educators policymakers and non governmental organizations with a comprehensive account of the multiple benefits and conflicts arising from the uniquely structured ecosystems of arid and semi arid regions The text describes the inhabitants of southwestern riparian ecosystems and addresses the research planning and management concerns for these fragile ecosystems in relation to the impacts of water and sediment flows livestock grazing and other human activities and the maintenance of key wildlife and fish habitats Water Quality Vladimir Novotny, 2002-11-08 Provides all new material on urban industrial and highway pollution as well as on management and restoration of streams lakes and watershed management techniques Includes revised chapters on agricultural diffuse pollution control of urban highway and industrial diffuse pollution and wetlands considerations All regulatory data is up to date with new material provided on judicial law based on significant decisions made in recent years Restoration of Puget Sound Rivers David R. Montgomery, Susan Bolton, Derek B. Booth, Leslie Wall, 2015-12-31 The recent listing of Pacific salmon under the Endangered Species Act has led to substantial interest in the scientific basis for river restoration in the Pacific Northwest Millions of dollars in state and federal funding have been programmed for habitat restoration efforts to stem the decline of salmon populations in the region This volume addresses the need for a solid understanding of fluvial processes and aquatic ecology in order to predict both river and salmonid response to restoration projects In the Pacific Northwest as in most regions of the United States we are still learning about the processes that create habitat and river structure how those processes influence aquatic ecosystems and how to gauge the response of river systems to both land use changes and restoration efforts River systems are still responding to historic changes and degraded habitat may not be restored successfully if natural conditions are not well understood particularly if massive changes in watershed hydrology or other processes are the root cause These issues faced in the development of regional river restoration programs are by no means unique to the Northwest and so the initiation of a regional program of river restoration provides an opportunity to evaluate the state of river restoration in general The eighteen chapters of Restoration of Puget Sound Rivers presented by the region's experts at a symposium of the Society for Ecological Restoration examine geological and geomorphological controls on river and stream characteristics and dynamics biological aspects of river systems in the region and the application of fluvial geomorphology civil engineering riparian ecology and aquatic ecology in efforts to restore Puget Sound Rivers This volume will be of interest to geomorphologists aquatic biologists civil engineers planners and all those interested in the interface of science and policy in addressing one of the fundamental environmental challenges of the twenty first century      Civil Works Program Strategic Plan, FY 2003-FY 2008, 2002      Water Resources Planning Andrew A. Dzurik, Tara Shenoy Kulkarni, Bonnie Kranzer Boland, 2018-10-17 Now in an extensively updated fourth edition this essential text offers a comprehensive survey of all aspects of water resources planning and management Utilizing an integrated water resources management IWRM framework the authors show how this approach can clarify and help resolve resource management problems in ways that take into account complicated and interconnected social economic and environmental needs Spanning the full planning process the book considers legal and administrative issues economic and forecasting factors water quality quantity supply use and demand and model applications The authors goal throughout is to provide a practical foundation for improving ecological and human environmental systems for practitioners and students alike      River Channel Management Peter Downs, Ken Gregory, 2014-02-24 River Channel Management is the first book to deal comprehensively with recent revolutions in river channel management It explores the multi disciplinary nature of river channel management in relation to modern management techniques that bear the background of the entire drainage basin in mind use channel restoration where appropriate and are designed to be sustainable River Channel Management is divided into five sections The Introduction outlines the need for river channel management Retrospective Review offers an overview of twentieth century engineering methods and the ways that river channel systems operate Realisation explains how greater understanding of river channel adjustments channel hazards and river basin planning created a context for twenty first century management Requirements for Management explains and examines environmental assessment restoration based approaches and methods that work towards design with nature Final Revision speculates about prospects for twenty first century river channel management River Channel Management is written for higher level undergraduates and for postgraduates in geography ecology engineering planning geology and environmental science for professionals involved in river channel management and for staff in environmental agencies
