Bowler, 2009-10-15

Recent scholarship has revealed that pioneering Victorian scientists endeavored through voluminous writing to raise public interest in science and its implications But it has generally been assumed that once science became a profession around the turn of the century this new generation of scientists turned its collective back on public outreach Science for All debunks this apocryphal notion Peter J Bowler surveys the books serial works magazines and newspapers published between 1900 and the outbreak of World War II to show that practicing scientists were very active in writing about their work for a general readership Science for All argues that the social environment of early twentieth century Britain created a substantial market for science books and magazines aimed at those who had benefited from better secondary education but could not access higher learning Scientists found it easy and profitable to write for this audience Bowler reveals and because their work was seen as educational they faced no hostility from their peers But when admission to colleges and universities became more accessible in the 1960s this market diminished and professional scientists began to lose interest in writing at the nonspecialist level Eagerly anticipated by scholars of scientific engagement throughout the ages Science for All sheds light on our own era and the continuing tension between science and public understanding

Mindell,2012-02-09 The USS Monitor famously battled the CSS Virginia the armored and refitted USS Merrimack at Hampton Roads in March 1862 This updated edition of David A Mindell s classic account of the ironclad warships and the human dimension of modern warfare commemorates the 150th anniversary of this historic encounter Mindell explores how mariners fighting blindly below the waterline lived in and coped with the metal monster they called the iron coffin He investigates how the ironclad technology new to war in the nineteenth century changed not only the tools but also the experience of combat and anticipated today's world of mechanized pushbutton warfare. The writings of William Frederick Keeler, the ship's paymaster, inform much of this book, as do the experiences of everyman sailor George Geer, who held Keeler in some contempt. Mindell uses their compelling stories and those of other shipmates to recreate the thrills and dangers of living and fighting aboard this superweapon. Recently pieces of the Monitor wreck have been raised from their watery grave, and with them information about the ship continues to be discovered. A new epilogue describes the recovery of the Monitor turret and its display at the USS Monitor Museum in Newport News, Virginia. This sensitive and enthralling history of the USS Monitor ensures that this fateful ship and the men who served on it will be remembered for generations to come.

The Rise of Modern Chinese Thought Hui Wang, 2023-07-18 Wang Hui asks what it means for China to be modern and for modernity to be Chinese. Is there a rupture between tradition and modernity in China? How has Confucian thought evolved? Did China become modern in the Middle Ages? A deep intellectual history. The Rise of Modern Chinese Thought revises our senses of both modernity and Chinese philosophy.

The Oxford Encyclopedia of Medieval Warfare and Military Technology Clifford J. Rogers, 2010 From the Viking invasions to the Crusades to the Hundred Years War, wars were crucial agents of change in medieval Europe. They fostered many economic and political changes. They also affected the science, technology, religion, and culture of the parties involved. Examines all aspects of warfare and military technology in medieval times and provides an exhaustive and accurate view of how and why wars were waged throughout Europe: the Byzantine Empire and the Crusader States from circa 500 CE to circa 1500.

On Pre-modern Technology and Science Bert S. Hall, Delno C. West, 1976

Kentuckians and Pearl Harbor Berry Craig, 2020-11-01 When the air raid alarm sounded around 7:55 a.m. on December 7, 1941, Gunner's Mate Second Class James Allard Vessels of Paducah was preparing to participate in morning colors aboard the USS Arizona. In the scramble for battle stations, Vessels quickly climbed to a machine gun platform high atop the mainmast as others descended below decks to help pass ammunition up to gunners. At 8:06 a bomb exploded and the Arizona sank. Vessels's lofty perch saved his life, but most of his shipmates were not so lucky. In Kentuckians and Pearl Harbor, Berry Craig employs an impressive array of newspapers, unpublished memoirs, oral histories, and official military records to offer a ground-up look at the day that Franklin D. Roosevelt said would live in infamy and its aftermath in the Bluegrass State. In a series of vignettes, Craig uncovers the untold, forgotten, or little-known stories of ordinary people, military and civilian, on the most extraordinary day of their lives. Craig concludes by exploring the home front reaction to this pivotal event in American history. Japan's surprise attack on Pearl Harbor swept away any illusions Kentuckians had about being able to stay out of World War II. From Paducah to Pikeville, people sprang to action. Their voices emerge and come back to life in this engaging and timely history.

Technology and War Martin Van Creveld, 2010-05-11 In this impressive work, van Creveld considers man's use of technology over the past 4,000 years and its impact on military organization, weaponry, logistics, intelligence, communications, transportation, and command. This revised
