Resources in Education ,1999-10 Making Good Neighbors Abigail Perkiss,2014-03-20 In the 1950s and 1960s as the white residents real estate agents and municipal officials of many American cities fought to keep African Americans out of traditionally white neighborhoods Philadelphia s West Mount Airy became one of the first neighborhoods in the nation where residents came together around a community wide mission toward intentional integration As West Mount Airy experienced transition homeowners fought economic and legal policies that encouraged white flight and threatened the quality of local schools seeking to find an alternative to racial separation without knowing what they would create in its place In Making Good Neighbors Abigail Perkiss tells the remarkable story of West Mount Airy drawing on archival research and her oral history interviews with residents to trace their efforts which began in the years following World War II and continued through the turn of the twenty first century The organizing principles of neighborhood groups like the West Mount Airy Neighbors Association WMAN were fundamentally liberal and emphasized democracy equality and justice the social cultural and economic values of these groups were also decidedly grounded in middle class ideals and white collar professionalism As Perkiss shows this liberal middle class framework would ultimately become contested by more militant black activists and from within WMAN itself as community leaders worked to adapt and respond to the changing racial landscape of the 1960s and 1970s The West Mount Airy case stands apart from other experiments in integration because of the intentional organized and long term commitment on the part of WMAN to biracial integration and in time multiracial and multiethnic diversity The efforts of residents in the 1950s and 1960s helped to define the neighborhood as it exists today
