Planning Cultures in Europe Frank Othengrafen, 2016-12-05 Bringing together an interdisciplinary team from across the EU this book connects elements of cultural and planning theories to explain differences and peculiarities among EU member states A culturized planning model is introduced to consider the rules of the game how culture affects planning practices not only on an explicit surface but also on a hidden implicit level The model consists of three analytical dimensions planning artifacts planning environment and societal environment This book adopts these dimensions to compare planning cultures of different European countries This sheds light not only on the organizational or institutional structure of planning but also the influence of deeper cultural values and layers on planning and implementation processes

Strategic Planning for Contemporary Urban Regions Alessandro Balducci, Valeria Fedeli, Gabriele Pasqui, 2016-04-01 This book is an account of how the Milan Provincial Administration and a team of researchers from Milan Polytechnic worked together to develop a new Strategic Plan for Milan s urban region Informed by innovative conceptions of both how to understand cities in the contemporary world and engage in strategic planning work this experience has already attracted considerable international attention The authors now consolidate their contribution into a comprehensive account which continually relates theory and practice Examining the Milan Plan in detail the book explains the profound transformations which put great pressure on the traditional descriptive tools so planners must engage in the production of new ones It also proposes that these transformations affect the way in which urban policies and planning processes are designed The project offers insights into and new directions for planning theory more generally while at the same time testing this powerful and innovative research hypothesis in an important European city empirical study In detailing the results of this project this book proposes useful ground breaking approaches to planning for similar urban regions

Reshaping Planning with Culture Greg Young, 2016-04-08 Planning is described as being increasingly sidelined by the impacts of neo liberal restructuring At the same time culture is nowadays seen as the world's key intellectual resource possessing new creative weight in sociological economic and environmental terms This book argues that in the light of this cultural turn there is the opportunity to re position planning and proposes an original practical and robust system of culturisation Culturisation is defined as the ethical critical and reflexive integration of culture into planning and potentially other areas such as public administration corporate strategy and development thinking Cultural theory planning theory global governance policy and recent innovative culturised practices are all explored to this end The new theoretical and practical approach put forward shows how deeper richer and more relevant ideas about culture can be utilized in planning and is illustrated with international examples and two major case studies detailing new vistas for a refurbished planning

Inventive City-Regions Marco Bontje, Sako Musterd, 2016-05-06 Virtually every city region in West and Central Europe has developed policies and strategies to attract retain and encourage creative industries and knowledge intensive services Since most of these city regions tend to see a creative knowledge economy as the best bet for the future one of the main goals of such policies and strategies is increasing the international competitiveness of their city region Using the cities of Amsterdam Barcelona Birmingham Helsinki Leipzig Manchester and Munich as case studies this book explores the spatial economic historical socio demographic socio cultural and political conditions that may determine whether a city region is or can become attractive for creative and knowledge intensive companies and for the talented people working for or founding these companies A comparison of the case studies and an overview of the key findings similarities and differences which lead to policy recommendations as well as suggested directions for further research will make this book attractive to urban and regional academics planners and students

Discourse Dynamics in Participatory Planning Diana MacCallum, 2016-05-23 This book introduces the methodology of critical discourse analysis CDA to the study of participatory planning CDA uses linguistic analysis to elucidate social issues and processes and is particularly suited to institutional practices and how they are changing in response to changing social conditions Illustrated by two case studies from Australia it examines the talk between the various participants in a formal stakeholder committee context over five years during which time they went through several phases of changing power dynamics conflict and reconciliation The book demonstrates the value of CDA to this field of research and develops specific techniques and conceptual tools for applying the methodology to the formal talk context of collaborative planning committees It also sheds light on the dynamics of interaction between stakeholders and bureaucracies particularly with respect to inherent communicative barriers power inequalities and the development of new discursive practices      De-coding New Regionalism Professor James W. Scott,2012-11-28 Bringing together comparative case studies from Central Europe and South America this book focuses on new regions regions created as political projects of modernization and re scaling Through this approach it de codes New Regionalism in terms of its contributions to institutional change while acknowledging its contested nature and contradictions It questions whether these regions are merely a strategy of neo liberal adjustment to changing political and economic conditions or whether they are indicative of true reform greater citizen participation and empowerment It assesses whether these regions are really representing something new or whether they are a reconfiguration of traditional power relationships It provides a timely critical analysis of region building and the extent to which national processes of decentralization and sub national processes of regionalism can enhance the effectiveness and responsiveness of governance      De-coding New Regionalism James W.
