Richard D. Besel,Jnan A. Blau,2013-11-26 Human degradation of the environment has been documented by scholars across a range of disciplines the global temperature of the planet continues to rise abandoned industrial sites stain once vibrant communities and questions about the purity of our water and foods linger In the shadow of these material conditions concerned citizens have reacted by issuing critiques against careless consumerism and excessive lifestyles Their hope is to illustrate and inspire alternative ways of living As part of such efforts and activism some have turned to performance as a means to investigate matters further pose challenges and questions and enact new ways of being and thinking in a globalized world Performance on Behalf of the Environment is a collection of essays from a diverse group of scholars that explore critically the strengths limitations and processes of what can be termed environmental performances

The Rhetorical Arts of Women in Aviation, 1911-1970 Sara Hillin, 2019-12-16 The Rhetorical Arts of Women in Aviation 1911 1970 Name It and Take It explores the rhetorical strategies employed by women involved in aviation between 1911 and 1970 It begins with Harriet Quimby who began writing aviation themed articles for Frank Leslie s Weekly in 1911 and ends with Jerrie Cobb one of the women who underwent a series of rigorous tests in the hopes of becoming an astronaut Although one chapter is devoted to the correspondence between German pilot Thea Rasche and aviatrix ally Glenn Buffington the author largely examines how women in the United States have navigated a developing field that at first seemed to welcome their participation but over time created discriminatory barriers to their advancement The rhetorics of African American pilots Willa Beatrice Brown and Bessie Coleman are analyzed in terms of both women s use of the Chicago Defender as a means of publicizing their work in aviation Topics woven throughout the rhetorical analyses are women s labor women aviators and motherhood and the ways in which women confronted both sexism and racism during aviation s golden age and beyond Scholars of rhetoric women s studies race studies and history will find this book particularly useful

Political Vices Mark E. Button, 2016-01-04 This book explores our uniquely political vices hubris willful blindness and recalcitrance According to Mark Button this overlooked class of vice encompasses those persistent dispositions of character and conduct that threaten the functioning of democratic institutions and the trust that citizens place in these institutions to secure a just political order Political Vices provides an account for how citizens can best contend with our most troubling political sins without undermining core commitments to liberalism or pluralism

Metaphor and Writing Philip Eubanks, 2010-11-04 This volume explains how metaphors metonymies and other figures of thought interact cognitively and rhetorically to tell us what writing is and what it should do Drawing on interviews with writing professionals and published commentary about writing it argues that our everyday metaphors and metonymies for writing are part of a figurative rhetoric of writing a pattern of discourse and thought that includes ways we categorize writers and writing stories we tell about people who write conceptual metaphors and metonymies used both to describe and to guide writing and familiar yet surprisingly adaptable conceptual blends used routinely for imagining writing situations The book will give scholars a fresh understanding of concepts such as voice self clarity power and the most basic figure of all the writer
