Mirrors In The Brain How Our Minds Share Actions Emotions And Experience:

Mirrors in the Brain Giacomo Rizzolatti, Corrado Sinigaglia, 2008 When we witness a great actor musician or sportsperson performing we share something of their experience It become clear just how this sharing of experience is realised within the human brain This text provides an accessible overview of mirror neurons written by the man who first discovered them Is Religion Natural? Dirk Evers, Michael Fuller, Antje Jackelen, Taede Smedes, 2012-06-28 How natural is religion Is it a phenomenon written in our genes or brains naturally developing with the development of the human race The book considers the findings of evolutionary psychology from scientific philosophical and theological perspectives and critically examines the relation between empirical epistemological and theological notions Chapters in the book deal with the naturalness of religion and religious experiences as based on genetics biology and social psychology Other authors examine the relationship between religion science and theology with regard to the naturalness of religion from a more general perspective The last part of the book includes views from a Muslim scholar and a historian Semiotics in Mathematics Education , 2008-01-01 Current interest in semiotics is undoubtedly related to our increasing awareness that our manners of thinking and acting in our world are deeply indebted to a variety of signs and sign systems language included that surround us Since mathematics is something that we accomplish through written oral bodily and other signs semiotics appears well suited to furthering our understanding of the mathematical processes of thinking symbolizing and communicating Resorting to different semiotic perspectives e g Peirce s Vygotsky s Saussure s the authors of this book deal with questions about the teaching and learning of mathematics as well as the history and epistemology of the discipline Mathematics discourse and thinking and the technologically mediated self of mathematical cultural practices are examined through key concepts such as metaphor intentionality gestures interaction sign use and meaning The cover picture comes from Jacob Leupold s 1727 Theatrum Arithmetico Geometrico It conveys the cultural historical and embodied aspects of mathematical thinking variously emphasized by the contributors of this book The Science of Selling David Hoffeld, 2016-11-15 The Revolutionary Sales Approach Scientifically Proven to Dramatically Improve Your Sales and Business Success Blending cutting edge research in social psychology neuroscience and behavioral economics The Science of Selling shows you how to align the way you sell with how our brains naturally form buying decisions dramatically increasing your ability to earn more sales Unlike other sales books which primarily rely on anecdotal evidence and unproven advice Hoffeld s evidence based approach connects the dots between science and situations salespeople and business leaders face every day to help you consistently succeed including proven ways to Engage buyers emotions to increase their receptiveness to you and your ideas Ask questions that line up with how the brain discloses information Lock in the incremental commitments that lead to a sale Create positive influence and reduce the sway of competitors Discover the underlying causes of objections and neutralize them Guide buyers through the necessary mental steps to make purchasing decisions Packed with advice and anecdotes The Science of Selling is an essential resource for anyone looking to succeed in today's cutthroat selling environment advance their business goals or boost their ability to influence others Named one of The 20 Most Highly Rated Sales Books of All Time by HubSpot

On Human Nature Jonathan H. Turner, 2020-11-24 In this book Jonathan H Turner combines sociology evolutionary biology cladistic analysis from biology and comparative neuroanatomy to examine human nature as inherited from common ancestors shared by humans and present day great apes Selection pressures altered this inherited legacy for the ancestors of humans termed hominins for being bipedal and forced greater organization than extant great apes when the hominins moved into open country terrestrial habitats The effects of these selection pressures increased hominin ancestors emotional capacities through greater social and group orientation This shift in turn enabled further selection for a larger brain articulated speech and culture along the human line Turner elaborates human nature as a series of overlapping complexes that are the outcome of the inherited legacy of great apes being fed through the transforming effects of a larger brain speech and culture These complexes he shows can be understood as the cognitive complex the psychological complex the emotions complex the interaction complex and the community complex

Essays on Neuroscience and Political Theory F. Vander Valk,2013-03-01 The past 20 years have seen increasingly bold claims emanating from the field of neuroscience Advances in medical imaging brain modelling and interdisciplinary cognitive science have forced us to reconsider the nature of social cultural and political activities This collection of essays is the first to explore the relationship between neuroscience and political theory with a view to examining what connections can be made and which claims represent a bridge too far The book is divided into three parts Part I places neuroscience as a social and political practice into historical context Part II weaves together the insights from contemporary neuroscience with the wisdom of major figures in the history of political thought Part III considers how neuroscience can inform contemporary debates about a range of issues in political theory This work brings together scholars who are sceptical about the possibility of integrating neuroscience and political theory with proponents of a neuroscience informed approach to thinking about political and social life The result is a timely and wide ranging collection of essays about the role that our brain might play in the life of the body politic It should be essential reading for all those with an interest in the cutting edge of political theory

Neurolaw Eugenio Picozza, 2016-09-27 This volume illustrates to the public and legal experts the basic principles of the field of neuroscience that commonly goes under the name of Neurolaw First it illustrates the relationship between neuroscience natural sciences and social sciences Furthermore it highlights numerous problems concerning the fundamental philosophical concepts used by Neurolaw and evaluates the validity of the method and the limits of a neuroscientific approach to the problems of law and justice The volume explores the possibility of application of these concepts on the fundamentals of the general theory of law and legal dogmatics It also examines the main problems of Neurolaw in relation to public private criminal and procedural law In conclusion the book follows a systematic method that makes it an thorough manual for the introduction to Neurolaw

Harmony, Perspective, and Triadic Cognition Norman D. Cook, 2012 The big question in the science of psychology is why is human cognition and behavior so different from the capabilities of every other animal species on Earth including our close genetic relations the chimpanzees This book provides a coherent answer by examining those aspects of the human brain that have made triadic forms of perception and cognition possible Mechanisms of dyadic association sufficiently explain animal perception cognition and behavior but a three way associational mechanism is required to explain the human talents for language tool making harmony perception pictorial depth perception and the joint attention that underlies all forms of social cooperation

Embodying Art Chiara Cappelletto, 2022-11-08 In recent years neuroscientists have made ambitious attempts to explain artistic processes and spectatorship through brain imaging techniques But can brain science really unravel the workings of art Is the brain in fact the site of aesthetic appreciation Embodying Art recasts the relationship between neuroscience and aesthetics and calls for shifting the focus of inquiry from the brain itself to personal experience in the world Chiara Cappelletto presents close readings of neuroscientific and philosophical scholarship as well as artworks and art criticism identifying their epistemological premises and theoretical consequences She critiques neuroaesthetic reductionism and its assumptions about a mind body divide arguing that the brain is embodied and embedded in affective cultural and historical milieus Cappelletto considers understandings of the human brain encompassing scientific philosophical and visual and performance arts discourses She examines how neuroaesthetics has constructed its field of study exploring the ways digital renderings and scientific data have been used to produce the brain as a cultural and visual object Tracing the intertwined histories of brain science and aesthetic theory Embodying Art offers a strikingly original and profound philosophical account of the human brain as a living artifact

The Emergence and Evolution of Religion Jonathan Turner, Alexandra Maryanski, Anders Klostergaard Petersen, Armin W. Geertz, 2017-08-10 Written by leading theorists and empirical researchers this book presents new ways of addressing the old question Why did religion first emerge and then continue to evolve in all human societies The authors of the book each with a different background across the social sciences and humanities assimilate conceptual leads and empirical findings from anthropology evolutionary biology evolutionary sociology neurology primate behavioral studies explanations of human interaction and group dynamics and a wide range of religious scholarship to construct a deeper and more powerful explanation of the origins and subsequent evolutionary development of religions than can currently be found in what is now vast literature While explaining religion has been a central question in many disciplines for a long time this book draws upon a much wider array of literature to develop a robust and cross disciplinary analysis of religion The book remains true to its subtitle by emphasizing an array of both biological and sociocultural forms of selection dynamics that are fundamental to explaining religion as a universal institution in human societies In addition to Darwinian selection which can explain the biology and neurology of religion the book outlines a set of four additional types of sociocultural natural selection that can fill out the explanation of why religion first emerged as an institutional system in human societies and why it has continued to evolve over the last 300 000 years of societal evolution These sociocultural forms of natural selection are labeled by the names of the early sociologists who first emphasized them and they can be seen as a necessary supplement to the type of natural selection theorized by Charles Darwin Explanations of religion that remain in the shadow cast by Darwin's great insights will it is argued remain narrow and incomplete when explaining a robust sociocultural phenomenon like religion
