Directorate for Science Education, 1979 Shakespeare, Ecology and Adaptation Alys Daroy, Paul Prescott, 2024-12-12 How can we tune into the ecological dynamics of Shakespeare's plays How can we adapt those plays to address current environmental crises This is the first book to fuse Shakespearean ecocriticism with adaptation studies It is a single critical and contextual resource for students teachers and practitioners embarking on an in depth exploration of ecological approaches to Shakespeare and adaptation The book provides critical insight into ecological performance practices and accessible contextual information for ecocriticism early modern environmental cultures and theatre making This guide offers Primary texts from the early modern period to the present covering themes such as weather botany agriculture fertility land rights animal and human relationships metamorphosis and adaptation A focus on 3 of the most studied and adapted plays A Midsummer Night's Dream King Lear and The Tempest as a basis for the wider application of ecological adaptive principles to Shakespeare A full range of environmental references in each focus play through innovative Eco Tables Concise summaries of literary ecocriticism in relation to each key text Sustained attention to performance and creative writing as ecocritical interventions The first dedicated chapter in the field offering conceptual and practical resources for staging your own Shakespearean eco adaptation A glossary of key terms and links to resources An accompanying companion website featuring additional resources Shakespeare Ecology and Adaptation A Practical Guide provides a pedagogic pathway and a ready made syllabus for teachers It is also an indispensable resource for theatre directors designers actors and dramaturgs seeking inspiration for the environmentally engaged productions and adaptations the future demands of us The Oxford Handbook of Historical Ecology and Applied Archaeology Christian Isendahl, Daryl Stump, 2019-01-10 The Oxford Handbook of Historical Ecology and Applied Archaeology presents theoretical discussions methodological outlines and case studies describing the field of overlap between historical ecology and the emerging sub discipline of applied archaeology to highlight how modern environments and landscapes have been shaped by humans Historical ecology is based on the recognition that humans are not only capable of modifying their environments but that all environments on earth have already been directly or indirectly modified This includes anthropogenic climate change widespread deforestations and species extinctions but also very local alterations the effects of which may last a few years or may have legacies lasting centuries or more With contributions from anthropologists archaeologists human geographers and historians this volume focuses not just on defining human impacts in the past but on the ways that understanding these changes can help inform contemporary practices and development policies Some chapters present examples of how ancient or current societies have modified their environments in sustainable ways while others highlight practices that had unintended long term consequences The possibilities of learning from these practices are discussed as is the potential of using the long history of human resource exploitation as a method for building or testing models of future change The volume offers overviews for students researchers and professionals with an interest in conservation or development projects who want to understand what practical insights can be drawn from history and who seek to apply their work to contemporary issues
