tackling Aldo Moro's assassination by the Red Brigades. The book includes Zavattini's last word on cinema and society, the testamentary satire La verità (1982), written, directed, and acted by Zavattini himself. Each text is preceded by an introduction providing an essential frame of reference to make these writings entirely accessible to the reader. Volume 2 brings to the fore Zavattini's ever-evolving internal dialogue between diary writer, screenwriter, narrative writer, and political activist. Essential to trace the origin of Zavattini's ideas on cinema and understand his theorization of Neo-realism is the inclusion of a selection of the filmmaker's pre-war writings. Most of the book provides a substantial anthology of texts translated from Neorealismo ecc (1979), comprising Zavattini's major essays, conference papers, unpublished production papers, interviews, and vital excerpts from his correspondence and published cinematic diary. Through translation and detailed cultural and contextual commentary, translator and editor David Brancalone traces not only Zavattini's theory of the screen but also his experimentation in new film practices, including the flash film, film lampo, the inquiry film, film inchiesta, cinema as encounter, cinema d'incontro, the diary film, film diario, the confessional film, film confessione, and the grass roots community film, cinema insieme, or cinema di tanti per tanti. Each text is preceded by an introduction providing an essential frame of reference to make these writings entirely accessible to the reader.
