The Status of Student Involvement in University Governance in Kenya Mulinge, Munyae M., Arasa, Josephine N., 2017-05-05 This book examines the concept of the democratization of governance in universities in Kenya with particular emphasis on students involvement in governance processes and decision making Data were collected from members of the student community utilizing a structured self administered questionnaire and from purposively selected key informants and focus group discussants drawn from Kenyatta University representing the public sector and the United States International University representing the private sector The guiding argument for the study was that shared governance one of the principles of good governance is critical in enabling the universities to deliver their visions and the missions effectively The results revealed that while in principle Kenyan universities have embraced democratic governance in which all stakeholders including students have a role to play in practice they continue to violate the core principles of good governance particularly shared governance Specifically students who are major stakeholders in university education are largely excluded from significant structures of governance thereby limiting their influence and participation Although their representation is mainly provided via student self governance organs unions associations and or councils their effectiveness is undermined considerably by the lack of trust and confidence of the student body and the unending manipulation by top university administrators and external political actors Student active involvement in decision making is mainly confined to lower levels such as the school faculty and departmental programme The authors call for a paradigm shift in the involvement of students in the governance of universities in ways that discourage the current culture of tokenism and political correctness that characterizes public and private universities in Kenya

Application of Nanotechnology in Food Science and Food Microbiology Jayanta Kumar Patra, Han-Seung Shin, Spiros Paramithiotis, 2018-06-25 Nanotechnology is a fast evolving discipline that already produces outstanding basic knowledge and industrial applications for the benefit of society It is a new emerging and fascinating field of science that permits advanced research in many areas The first applications of nanotechnology mainly concerned material sciences applications in the agriculture and food sectors are still emerging Food science nanotechnology is an area of rising attention that unties new possibilities for the food industry Due to the rapid population growth there is a need to produce food and beverages in a more efficient safe and sustainable way The application of nanotechnology in food has also gained great importance in recent years in view of its potential application to improve production of food crops enhance nutrition packaging and food safety overall The new materials products and applications are anticipated to bring lots of improvements to the food and related sectors impacting agriculture and food production food processing distribution storage sanitation as well as the development of innovative products and sensors for effective detection of contaminants Therefore nanotechnology present with a large potential to provide an opportunity for the researchers of food science food microbiology and other fields to develop new tools for incorporation of nanoparticles into hegemonies have been key in values that create social injustices that are in all spheres of life but more so in women and men relationships In cases of leadership and in many cultures men have adopted attitudes that justify exclusion of women from leadership In religious circles it is justified by the ways texts are read and interpreted through the lens of culture If we begin from the premises of justice and believing in a God of justice then hegemonic ways of understating leadership should be null and void Acknowledging that human beings are created in the image and likeness of God demands that we act differently What this has meant is to challenge injustice in leadership by men and women in partnership The circle of concerned African women theologians in Africa where Rev Edith Chemorion is a member has over the years provided safe spaces for mentoring women to research and write about the experiences of women but much more so to call for justice in all areas including the study of theological education and for leadership in the churches This has borne results because of the partnership of men and women Reverend Edith s contributions to the rallying call is that society moves from hegemony to partnership in all fronts but especially in offering leadership by all We are strong when we partner and we image God s will for society in partnership Prof Esther Mombo Lecturer Faculty of Theology St Paul s University Limuru Kenya Philosophy, Language, and Literature in an African Context Wilfred Lajul,2024-12-16 Philosophy Language and Literature in an African Context investigates the link between philosophy and language in African literature Wilfred Lajul and the contributors argue that African literature is more than the desire of literary writers to entertain or provoke thought but rather a stylistic means through which they convey important information and philosophy This book also probes into theories contexts and moral language in African literature exploring their implications for language use The contributors analyze linguistic philosophical and cultural worldviews of the African literary writers shown within their poetry novels and plays This book provides new ways of understanding the relationship between philosophy and language in African literature Papers in International Studies ,1978 East African Ecosystems and Their Conservation T. Literature and Human Rights Ian Ward, 2015-03-10 The idea of human rights is not new But the importance of taking rights seriously has never been more urgent The eighteen essays which comprise Literature and Human Rights are written as a contribution to this vital debate Each moreover is written in the spirit of interdisciplinarity reaching across the myriad constitutive disciplines of law literature and the humanities in order to present an array of alternative perspectives on the nature and meaning of human rights in the modern world The taking of human rights seriously it will be suggested depends just as much on taking seriously the idea of the human as it does the idea of rights Tropical Alpine Environments

Philip W. Rundel, Alan P. Smith, F. C. Meinzer, 1994-09 Plants growing in tropical alpine environments at altitudes above the closed canopy forest and below the limit of plant life have evolved distinct forms to cope with a hostile environment characterized by cold drought and fire Unlike temperate alpine environments where there are distinct seasons of favourable and unfavourable conditions for growth tropical alpine habitats present summer conditions every day and winter conditions every night Using examples from all over the tropics this fascinating account reviews for the first time the unique form and functional relationships of tropical alpine plants examining both their physiological ecology and population biology It will appeal to anyone interested in tropical vegetation and plant physiological adaptations to hostile environment as well as to researchers in biogeography and ecology
