Paxton's Magazine of Botany Joseph Paxton,2017-09-12 Excerpt from Paxton s Magazine of Botany And Register of Flowering Plants In the commencement of 1849 we entered on a wider field than we had previously occupied including in our work Notices and Cultivation of every thing connected with Gardening Although the plan did not admit of so many plates being given monthly yet perhaps an equal number of subjects have been figured with any former year and the amount of letter press has been much greater yet the alteration altogether has not been so satisfactory either to our subscribers or ourselves as could have been wished About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten

Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works Chatsworth John Barnatt, Tom Williamson, 2005 Set within the stunning landscape of the Peak District National Park exquisite Chatsworth House is one of the most visited properties in England Its vast gardens and parks which stand in direct contrast to the upland moors that surround them are the result of a labour of love by successive dukes and duchesses of Devonshire over a period of three hundred years 1600 to 1900 This wonderful book explores the history of this landscape both BC Before Chatsworth and later beginning with the earliest landscaping of the Elizabethan Bess of Hardwick and the ambitious project of the first dukes to create gardens and landscapes that complemented their innovative state of the art mansion completed at the turn of the 18th century Intended to delight amuse and impress the landscape was the result of earthmoving on a massive scale culminating in the extraordinary Canal Pond Further afield a deer park enclosures lakes weirs cascades and driveways tamed the moors The landscape was repeatedly transformed and recreated by successive generations of dukes designers and architects notably Capability Brown who naturalised the grounds in the 18th century while 19th century tastes created much of what we see today with conservatories arboretums Paxton s Emperor Fountain and the model village of Edensor The authors also survey the earlier history of Chatsworth the archaeology of the surrounding peaks the remains of the medieval village of Edensor which as was often the case with country estates was swept away only to be later resurrected according to Victorian taste and a number of fine ancient oaks which have seen it all and still stand today The book is illustrated throughout with many excellent colour photographs of the estate and old plans and paintings which demonstrate the many changes the centuries have brought Another excellent landscape study by Windgather Press The Athenæum ,1834 Bookseller's catalogues John H.W. Cadby,1861 The Spectator ,1835 A weekly review of politics literature theology and art The Literature of British Domestic Architecture, 1715-1842 John Archer,1985 While few historians would dispute the importance of the printed book in the development of domestic design in 18th and 19th century Britain this is the first major study to trace the evolution of architectural ideas during the period by examining the literary output of architects It is a work of extraordinary scholarship based on an extensive search of dozens of major library collections that will serve as a standard resource for researchers and librarians book dealers and collectors Most of the book is devoted to descriptions of hundreds of books and periodicals containing original designs for domestic structures The earliest title described is Colen Campbell s Vitruvius Britannicus 1715 an important Palladian manifesto and the first book to illustrate a series of the author s own executed designs for dwellings intended to redirect and reform British architectural taste and the latest title is Supplement 1842 to John Claudius Loudon s Encyclopedia Related materials on agriculture landscape design drawing and perspective also are covered Each entry includes a bibliographic description of all known editions and a commentary that describes and analyzes the text and plates focusing in particular on the author s ideas and approaches to design issues Appendixes to the principal entries provide a checklist of additional handbooks and manuals by important authors such as Crunden Halfpenny Langley Nicholson Pain Richardson Salmon and Swan and books showing domestic interiors There is also a valuable short title chronological list and a list of printers publishers and booksellers In a lengthy introductory essay Archer discusses architecture and the book trade the format and content of the books and aspects of architectural theory and design including ideas of character and retirement dwelling types such as villas cottages and row houses model housing for laborers and town and village planning John Archer is Associate Professor in the Humanities Program at the University of Minnesota
