

HYDROLOGY

HYDROLOGIC CYCLE

The water cycle, or hydrologic cycle, is a continuous process by which water is purified by evaporation and transported from the earth's surface (including the oceans) to the atmosphere and back to the land and oceans.

GROUND WATER

- Ground water comprises the subsurface water that occurs within the saturated zone of the earth's surface, or within the part of the earth's crust where all openings are filled with water.
- It is distinguished from water on and above the earth's crust, and from water occurring below the ground surface but above the saturated zone (or occurring within the unsaturated zone).

- The volume of water stored in the rocks of the world's land areas may be on the order of 8 billion km³, of which half is at depths less than 800 m.
- This volume is about 35 times the combined storage of all the world's rivers, fresh water lakes, reservoirs, and in land seas, and is about one-third the volume of water stored in arctic and Antarctic ice fields, in the glaciers of Greenland and great mountain systems of the world.
- Despite its magnitude, most ground water is not visible because it is stored below the earth's surface.
- However, a small percentage of this underground supply is visible as naturally-discharging springs, or as streams and rivers which are sustained by ground water when direct runoff from precipitation ceases.
- This lack of visibility tends to promote some mysticism about ground water and a disregard for the need to protect it from pollution. • Ground water is not mystic, and it does need protection. While ground water is a resource of immense magnitude, it is not evenly available and is exhaustible.

- The term "ground water reservoir" is widely and loosely used to denote places where ground water is accumulated under conditions that make it suitable for development and use.
- There is no standard or generally accepted definition of the term.
- "Ground water basin," "aquifer," "water-bearing zone"(or formation), "ground water district," and "ground water area"

AQUIFER

- An aquifer is the saturated, permeable, geological formation or group of formations which contains, transmits, and yields significant quantity of water.
- The flow in the aquifer is mainly horizontal, and the source of water is mainly through infiltration.

AQUIFERS CAN BE CLASSIFIED AS: UCS

- confined aquifer
- semi-confined aquifer, and
- unconfined aquifer.
