Foolproof Greg Ip, 2015-10-13 How the very things we create to protect ourselves like money market funds or anti lock brakes end up being the biggest threats to our safety and wellbeing We have learned a staggering amount about human nature and disaster yet we keep having car crashes floods and financial crises Partly this is because the success we have at making life safer enables us to take bigger risks As our cities transport systems and financial markets become more interconnected and complex so does the potential for catastrophe How do we stay safe Should we What if our attempts are exposing us even more to the very risks we are avoiding Would acceptance of danger make us more secure Is there such a thing as foolproof In Foolproof Greg Ip presents a macro theory of human nature and disaster that explains how we can keep ourselves safe in our increasingly dangerous world

Going Green Sally Stenhouse Kneidel, Sadie Kneidel, 2008 Going Green focuses on the biggest environmental culprits of the Western lifestyle diet housing clothing and transportation providing practical and effective steps we can all take to reduce our carbon footprint and live more sustainably This comprehensive text is written with an approachable and empowering tone drawing on personal interviews and real life examples to demonstrate both the challenges and rewards of making environmentally responsible choices Informative and inspiring Going Green will make you think twice about every dollar you spend Development Poverty and Politics Richard Martin, Ashna Mathema, 2009-12-04

By providing specific and practical examples this book helps practitioners to apply the insights of how best to pursue a bottom up approach to development in their own work while also helping theoreticians and students to develop a strong analytical framework on the subject British Romanticism and the Archive David Kerler, 2022-06-06 Taking its cue from Jacques Derrida's concept of the mal d'archive this study explores the interrelations between the experience of loss melancholia archives and their self destructive tendencies surfacing in different forms of spectrality in selected poetry of British Romanticism It argues that the British Romantics were highly influenced by the period's archival fever manifesting itself in various historical material technological and cultural aspects and implicitly reflected and engaged with these discourses and materialities medialities in their works This is scrutinized by focusing on two basal closely related facets the subject's feverish desire to archive and the archive's self destructive tendencies which may also surface in an ambivalent melancholic relishing in the archived object's presence within its absence Through this new theoretical perspective details and coherence previously gone unnoticed shall be laid bare ultimately contributing to a new and more profound understanding of British Romanticism's It will be shown that the various discursive and material manifestations of archives and archival practices not only echo the period's technological cultural and historical developments along with its incisive experiencing of loss but also fundamentally determine Romantic subjectivity and aesthetics Engineering Journal, 1990
