Peacemaking from Above, Peace from Below Norrin M. Ripsman, 2016-05-31 In Peacemaking from Above Peace from Below Norrin M Ripsman explains how regional rivals make peace and how outside actors can encourage regional peacemaking Through a qualitative empirical analysis of all the regional rivalries that terminated in peace treaties in the twentieth century including detailed case studies of the Franco German Egyptian Israeli and Israeli Jordanian peace settlements Ripsman concludes that efforts to encourage peacemaking that focus on changing the attitudes of the rival societies or democratizing the rival polities to enable societal input into security policy are unlikely to achieve peace Prior to a peace treaty he finds peacemaking is driven by states often against intense societal opposition for geostrategic reasons or to preserve domestic power After a formal treaty has been concluded the stability of peace depends on societal buy in through mechanisms such as bilateral economic interdependence democratization of former rivals cooperative regional institutions and transfers of population or territory Society is largely irrelevant to the first stage but is critical to the second He draws from this analysis a lesson for contemporary policy Western governments and international organizations have invested heavily in efforts to promote Israeli Palestinian and Indo Pakistani peace by promoting democratic values economic exchanges and cultural contacts between the opponents Such attempts to foster peace are likely to waste resources until such time as formal peace treaties are concluded between longtime adversaries

Molchanov, 2016-03-03 Bridging foreign policy analysis and international political economy this volume offers a new look at the problem of agency in comparative regional integration studies It examines evolving regional integration projects in the Eurasian space defined as the former Soviet Union countries and China and the impact that Russian foreign policy has had on integration in the region Mikhail Molchanov argues that new regionalism in Eurasia should be seen as a reactive response to contemporary challenges that these developing states face in the era of globalization Regional integration in this part of the world treads the unknown waters and may not simply repeat the early steps in the evolution of the European Union The question of a hegemonic leadership in particular as exercised by a country that spearheads regional integration efforts animates much of the discussion offered in the book Moreover Eurasian regionalisms are plural phenomena because of complementary and competing projects that engage the same or partially overlapping groups of countries By combining foreign policy studies with an examination of the international political economy of regionalism in Eurasia the author furthers our understanding of new regionalism both theoretically and empirically Publish Your Family History Dina C Carson, 2015-01-23 If you have stories to share with your family whether you have been researching a short time or a long time this book will take you through the four stages of publishing projects show you how publishing works help you pick a project to publish lead you through a research review to see what you have and what you still need to tell the stories in a compelling way give you the skills to become a good storyteller lead you through the process of editing instruct you how to prepare your manuscript to look like it was professionally published and help you spread the word that you have a book available Everything you need to write and publish your family history Keywords family history genealogy write a family history write a genealogy publish your family history how to self publish book publishing storytelling book marketing designing a book The End of American Labor Unions Raymond L. World Heritage Sites and Tourism

Laurent Bourdeau, Maria Gravari-Barbas, Mike Robinson, 2016-11-10 Not all World Heritage Sites have people living within or close by their boundaries but many do The designation of World Heritage status brings a new dimension to the functioning of local communities and particularly through tourism Too many tourists accentuated by the World Heritage label or in some cases not enough tourists despite anticipation of increased numbers can act to disrupt and disturb relations within a community and between communities Either way tourism can be seen as a form of activity that can generate interest and concern as it is played out within World Heritage Sites But the relationships that World Heritage Sites and their consequent tourism share with communities are not just a function of the number of tourists The relationships are complex and ever changing as the communities themselves change and are built upon long standing and wider contextual factors that stretch beyond tourism This volume drawing upon a wide range of international cases relating to some 33 World Heritage Sites reveals the multiple dimensions of the relations that exist between the sites and local communities The designation of the sites can create obscure and heighten the power relations between different parts of a community between different communities and between the tourism and the heritage sector Increasingly the management of World Heritage is not only about the management of buildings and landscapes but about managing the communities that live and work in or near them

Covering both technology and library practices, the title has been a go-to text for librarians and library school students since 2002. Since the second edition of this must-have book was published in late 2009, libraries have undergone profound changes primarily linked to advances in technology. We've seen the debut of RDA, the release of new Pew Research library and Internet use data, and the establishment of digital repositories, community MakerSpaces, and community reads programs. Of course, libraries have also been affected by the expanding use of social media. This thoroughly updated title addresses all these changes and more, bringing you up to date on the monumental shifts impacting librarianship. The book is designed to introduce LIS students to the profession, preparing them to enter an exciting and evolving world. It clarifies the changing roles and responsibilities of library professionals, new paradigms for evaluating information, and characteristics and functions of today's library personnel. Among other subjects, chapters cover preparing materials for use, circulation, reference services, ethics in the information age, Internet trends, and job search basics. References, websites, and publications at the end of every chapter point to further resources, and appendices supply information such as policies, the library bill of rights, and the Freedom to Read statement.

In American Fashion Natalie Nudell, 2024-08-22 In American Fashion is the first scholarly analysis of the Fashion Calendar, the unique scheduling service and trade publication for the American fashion and creative industries between 1941 and 2014. Published by Ruth Finley for almost seven decades, the Calendar had an extensive impact on the development of the American fashion industry in the 20th century. Unlike European fashion capitals, the American fashion industry relied on an independent small publisher to manage the schedule of an ever-growing industry. In American Fashion shows how this independent position influenced the democratic approach reflected in the industry in the United States. Finley's unique contribution to the development of the time system and culture of American fashion made her a key player during the ascendancy of American fashion design. Natalie Nudell unveils the Fashion Calendar as a historical archive and also looks at its development into an open-source digital humanities project to be released in November 2023. Through historical analysis and the upcoming digitization of the Ruth Finley Collection, this study unpacks the history and impact of the publication and the women behind it. Federal Register, 2013-05 The Fires of Spring Shelly Culbertson, 2016-04-19 Turkey, Iraq, Qatar, Jordan, Egypt, and Tunisia.
