A New History of War Reporting Kevin Williams, 2019-12-23 This book takes a fresh look at the history of war reporting to understand how new technology new ways of waging war and new media conditions are changing the role and work of today's war correspondent Focussing on the mechanics of war reporting and the logistical and institutional pressures on correspondents the book further examines the role of war propaganda accreditation and news management in shaping the evolution of the specialism Previously neglected conflicts and correspondents are reclaimed and wars considered as key moments in the history of war reporting such as the Crimean War 1854-56 and the Great War 1914-18 are re-evaluated The use of objectivity as the yardstick by which to assess the performance of war correspondents is questioned The emphasis is instead placed on war as a messy business which confronts reporters and photographers with conditions that challenge the norms of professional practice References to the demise of the war correspondent have accompanied the growth of the specialism since the days of William Howard Russell the so-called father of war reporting This highlights the fragile nature of this sub-genre of journalism and emphasises that continuity as much as change characterises the work of the war correspondent A thematically organised historically rich introduction this book is ideal for students of journalism media and communication

Granular Modernism Beci Carver, 2014 Granular Modernism understands the way that some modernist texts put themselves together as a way of pulling themselves apart In this volume Beci Carver offers a new way of reading Modernist texts by drawing attention to the anomalies that make them difficult to summarise or simplify Carver proposes that rather than trying to find the shapes of narrative or argument in their writing the Granular Modernists namely Joseph Conrad William Gerhardie Evelyn Waugh Henry Green T S Eliot W H Auden and Samuel Beckett experiment in certain of their works in finding the shapelessness of a moment in history that increasingly confidently called itself modern which was to call itself shapeless The project of modernism in the late nineteenth and the first half of the twentieth century was to find a story to tell about an era full of beginnings The project of Granular Modernism was to find a way of turning the inchoateness of the modern moment into art Granular Modernism takes from the Naturalist movements of the nineteenth and early twentieth century its attentiveness to the process of mundane experiences like eating or waiting But where Naturalism sets out to offer a complete picture of a way of life Granular Modernism's eating and waiting fail to amount to anything more to paraphrase Evelyn Waugh The most they can hope for is a cumulative futility Frank Norris once described one of Stephen Crane's narrators as a locust in a grain elevator attempting to empty the silo by carrying off one grain at a time Norris is being dismissive But his image of pointless meticulous indefinite manoeuvre potentially defines the ambition of the Granular Modernists

At the Violet Hour Sarah Cole, 2012-11-01 Literature has long sought to make sense of the destruction and aggression wrought by human civilization Yet no single literary movement was more powerfully shaped by violence than modernism As Sarah Cole shows modernism emerged as an imaginative response to the devastating events that defined the period including the chaos of anarchist bombings World War I the Irish uprising and the Spanish Civil War Combining historical detail with resourceful readings of fiction poetry journalism photographs and other cultural materials At the Violet Hour explores the strange intimacy between modernist aesthetics and violence in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries The First World War and T S Eliot's The Waste Land demonstrate the new theoretical paradigm that Cole deploys throughout her study what she calls enchanted and disenchanted violence the polarizing perceptions of violent death as either the fuel for regeneration or the emblem of grotesque loss These concepts thread through the literary historical moments that form the core of her study beginning with anarchism and the advent of dynamite violence in late Victorian England As evinced in novels by Joseph Conrad Henry James and others anarchism fostered a vibrant modern consciousness of violence entrenched in sensationalism and melodrama A subsequent chapter offers four interpretive categories keening generative violence reprisal and allegory for reading violence in works by W B Yeats J M Synge Sean O Casey and others around the time of Ireland's Easter Rising The book concludes with a discussion of Virginia Woolf's oeuvre placing the author in two primary relations to the encroaching culture of violence deeply exploring and formalizing its registers and veering away from her peers to construct an original set of patterns to accommodate its visceral ubiquity in the years leading up to the Second World War A rich interdisciplinary study that incorporates perspectives from history anthropology the visual arts and literature At the Violet Hour provides a resonant framework for refiguring the relationship between aesthetics and violence that will extend far beyond the period traditionally associated with literary modernism

Suicidal Honor Doris G. Borgen, 2006-09-30 On September 13 1912 the day of Emperor Meiji's funeral General Nogi Maresuke committed ritual suicide by seppuku disembowelment It was an act of delayed atonement that paid a debt of honor incurred thirty five years earlier The revered military hero's wife joined in his act of junshi following one's lord into death The violence of their double suicide shocked the nation What had impelled the general and his wife on the threshold of a new era to resort so drastically so dramatically to this forbidden anachronistic practice The nation was divided There were those who saw the suicides as a heroic affirmation of the samurai code others found them a cause for embarrassment a sign that Japan had not yet crossed the cultural line separating tradition from modernity While acknowledging the nation's sharply divided reaction to the Nogis junshi as a useful indicator of the event's seismic impact on Japanese culture Doris G Bergen in the first half of her book demonstrates that the deeper significance of Nogi's action must be sought in his personal history enmeshed as it was in the tumultuous politics of the Meiji period Suicidal Honor traces Nogi's military career and personal travail through the armed struggles of the collapsing shogunate and through the two wars of imperial conquest during which Nogi played a significant role the Sino Japanese War 1894 1895 and the Russo Japanese War 1904 1905 It also probes beneath the political to explore the religious origins of ritual self sacrifice in cultures as different as ancient Rome and today's Nigeria Seen in this context Nogi's death was homage to the divine emperor But what was the significance of Nogi's waiting thirty five years before he offered himself as a human sacrifice to a dead rather than living deity To answer this question Bergen delves deeply and with great insight into the story of Nogi's conflicted career as a military hero who longed to be a peaceful man of letters In the second half of Suicidal Honor Bergen turns to the extraordinary influence of the Nogi's deaths on two of Japan's greatest writers Mori gai and Natsume S seki gai's historical fiction written in the immediate aftermath of his friend's junshi is a profound meditation on the significance of ritual suicide in a time of historical transition Stories such as The Sakai Incident Sakai jiken appear in a new light and with greatly enhanced resonance in Bergen's interpretation In S seki's masterpiece Kokoro Sensei the protagonist refers to the emperor's death and his general's junshi before taking his own life Scholars routinely mention these references but Bergen demonstrates convincingly the uncanny ways in which S seki's agonized response to Nogi's suicide structures the entire novel By exploring the historical and literary legacies of Nogi gai and S seki from an interdisciplinary perspective Suicidal Honor illuminates Japan's prolonged and painful transition from the idealized heroic world of samurai culture to the mundane anxieties of modernity It is a study that will fascinate specialists in the fields of Japanese literature history and religion and anyone seeking a deeper understanding of Japan's warrior culture
