Roberts,Charles J. Elfer,2024-10-01 In response to the limitations associated with teaching through film we sought to develop practical lesson ideas that might bridge gaps between theory and practice and assist teachers endeavoring to make effective use of film in their classrooms One of the more interesting sources of visual media many authors in the previous volumes elected to use as the focus of their lesson plans were cartoons These lesson plans have been some of the more popular in the series and are often easier to adapt for a variety of grade levels In conducting research for this volume we learned that cartoons are an often used media sources in the classroom They have similar strengths and weaknesses in not only the teaching of history but other social studies disciplines as well While in many cases their intended audience is younger children people of all ages enjoy cartoons This makes them useful for teaching students at all grade levels as well as adults as there will be immediate buy in if used as a source of analysis for inquiry based lessons As with live action film we believe cartoons can also serve as a powerful tool in the social studies classroom and if appropriately utilized can foster critical thinking and civic mindedness The College Career and Civic Life C3 framework adopted by the National Council for the Social Studies in 2013 represents a renewed and formalized emphasis on the perennial social studies goals of deep thinking reading and writing The C3 is comprehensive and ambitious Moreover we believe that as teachers endeavor to digest and implement the platform in schools and classrooms across the country the desire for access to structured strategies that lead to more active and rigorous investigation in the social studies classroom will grow increasingly acute Our hope is that the present volume might play a small role in the larger Hollywood or History project of supporting practitioners specifically teachers of preK 12 social studies disciplines by offering a collection of 19 classroom ready lesson designed to foster social studies inquiry through the careful use of selected cartoons

Hollywood or History? Sarah J. Kaka,2022-01-01 The rationale for the present text Hollywood or History An Inquiry Based Strategy for Using Film to Teach About Inequality and Inequity Throughout History stems from two main things First and foremost is the fact that the reviews of the first two volumes in the Hollywood or History series have been overwhelmingly positive especially as it pertains to the application of the strategy for practitioners Classroom utility and teacher practice have continued to be the primary objectives in developing the Hollywood or History strategy The second thing is that this most recent volume in the series takes it in a new direction rather than focusing on eras in history it focuses on the themes of inequity and inequality throughout history and how teachers can utilize the Hollywood or History strategy to tackle some of the more complicated content throughout history that many teachers tend to shy away from There is a firm belief that students connection to film along with teachers ability to use film in an effective manner will help alleviate some of the challenges of teaching challenging topics such as inequity and inequality in terms of gender race socioeconomic status and so much more The book provides 30 secondary lesson plans grades 6 12 that address nine different topics centered around inequity and inequality throughout history many of which connect students to the world we are living in today The intended audience for the book are teachers who teach social studies at the 6th 12th grade level both in the United States and other countries An additional audience will be college and university social studies history methods professors in the United States and worldwide

Teaching History with Film Alan S. Marcus,Scott Alan Metzger,Richard J. Paxton,Jeremy D. Stoddard,2010-02-25 Visit any school in the United States and chances are that you will find at least one of the social studies teachers showing a film about history. Along with the textbook movies are one of the most prominent teaching aids in the history classroom. Yet when middle and high school history teachers look for models of the effective use of motion pictures in history classrooms the cupboard is surprisingly bare. Teaching History with Film provides a fresh, engaging and clear overview of teaching with film to effectively enhance social studies instruction. Using cases of experienced teachers to illustrate accomplished history teaching through the use of movies, this text provides pre and in-service teachers with ideas for implementing film-based lessons in their own classrooms and offers a deeper understanding of the thorny issues involved in using film to teach history. Each section of the book focuses on how teachers can effectively support the development of students' historical film literacy through topics such as using film to develop historical empathy, to develop interpretive skills and to explore controversial issues. By developing the skills students need to think critically about the past or what they think they know about history, the lessons in this book illustrate how to harness the pedagogical power of film to provide the tools necessary for rigorous inquiry and democratic citizenship. Special features include Reflection on the Case following each chapter, analyzing and discussing the strengths and limitations of the teacher's approach as well as providing strategies for using and choosing films specific to the educational outcome. Sample unit outlines, descriptions of class texts and films, worksheets, essay questions, viewer guides and exercises for the classroom throughout. Discussion of the practical considerations facing classroom teachers including juggling time restraints, issues of parental permission and meeting standards.

Hollywood or History? Lisa K. Pennington, Donna Fortune, Mary E. Tackett, Paige Horst, Meghan A. Kessler, 2024-09-01

Teaching and learning through Hollywood or commercial film and television productions is anything but a new approach and has been something of a mainstay in the classroom for nearly a century. However, purposeful and effective instruction through film is not problem-free and there are many challenges that accompany classroom applications of Hollywood motion pictures. In response to the problems and possibilities associated with teaching through film, we are developing a collection of practical classroom-ready lesson ideas that might bridge gaps between theory and practice and assist teachers endeavoring to make effective use of film in their classrooms. We believe that film can serve as a powerful tool in the social studies classroom and where appropriately utilized, foster critical thinking and civic-mindedness. The NCSS College Career and Civic Life C3 framework represents a renewed and formalized emphasis on the perennial social studies goals of deep thinking, reading and writing. We believe that as teachers endeavor to digest and implement the platform in schools and classrooms across the country, the desire for access to structured strategies that lead to more active and rigorous investigation in the social studies classroom will grow increasingly acute. Our hope is that this edited book might play a small role in the larger project of supporting practitioners, specifically K-6 teachers of social studies content, by offering a collection of classroom-ready tools based on the Hollywood or History strategy and designed to foster inquiry through the careful use of selected motion pictures and television productions.
