Wagner, 2021-07-09      Managing Team Centricity in Modern Organizations Brian Murray, James H. Dulebohn, Dianna L. Stone, 2022-08-01. Managers are increasingly employing teams as a primary work unit in organizations but they are struggling with how to effectively lead the emerging team structures. Intensifying the challenges that they are facing, work restrictions due to the Covid 19 pandemic hastened the move to remote work, flexible work arrangements and virtual teams. The current volume of Research in Human Resource Management presents literature reviews, conceptual development and original research evidence to inform the management of teams and spotlight new directions and approaches for team research in this evolving complex and dynamic environment. This ten article volume includes an outstanding roster of established and emerging team scholars who define the future of team management research. The volume is presented in four parts. PART ONE introduces perspectives on the science of team research. Joshua Strauss and James Grand present the systems thinking perspective as an alternative to more traditional IPO and multi level covariation models. Patrick Rosopa introduces a machine learning approach to inductive team research for complex networks and dynamic variable relationships. PART TWO includes three articles that address team performance. Gabe Dickey and colleagues present a model of performance management, leadership and engagement. Akvile Mockeviciute and colleagues systematically review the feedback literature for teams and present a model of performance enhancement. John Austin provides a qualitative study that steers transactive memory research in a new direction for teams accessing external expertise. PART THREE offers two articles on individualized flexible work arrangements among team members and their effect on team outcomes. Miriam Baumgartner and Martina Hartner Tiefenthaler offer script development and a reflexivity process to address the negative impact of uncoordinated team member job crafting. Chenwei Liao presents empirical evidence about the team efficacy and performance outcomes from servant leadership in managing the deals process for team members. PART FOUR includes two articles that address the rising presence of virtual teams by looking at electronic communication and its implications for diverse team members. Julio Canedo and colleagues review literature regarding diversity and virtual teams to inform the development of a model that links measures of diversity and the intervening experience of diversity types of electronic communication virtual team processes and team outcomes Bill Bommer and James Schmidtke present an empirical study addressing the question of whether team member behavior is different in virtual meetings than face to face and whether there is a gender implication for the change to videoconferencing The volume is designed primarily for scholars in the fields of human resource management organizational behavior and industrial organizational psychology It also serves the needs of instructors and students in master s and doctoral courses in industrial organizational psychology human resource management or organizational behavior Each article is grounded in managerial context that will appeal to practitioners in the field

Children's Competencies Development in the Home Learning Environment Frank Niklas,Caroline Cohrssen,Simone Lehl,Amy R. Napoli,2021-08-02 Educational Policy Evaluation through International Comparative Assessments Rolf Strietholt,Wilfried Bos,Jan-Eric Gustafsson,Monica Rosén,2014 One of the most salient findings from the field of education is that there are huge national differences in student achievement as shown in international comparative studies like PISA and TIMSS The shockingly large gap between the highest performing countries mostly in East Asia and many European countries corresponds to a difference in attainment of two years of schooling Although this finding has been replicated in several studies the reasons for and consequences of such differences are currently not well understood This book is a collection of essays and studies by leading experts in international comparative education who demonstrate how international comparative assessments can be used to evaluate educational policies The volume is organized into two parts that address first theoretical foundations and methodological developments in the field of international assessments and second innovative substantive studies that utilize international data for policy evaluation studies The intention of this book is to revisit the idea of using the world as an educational laboratory both to inform policy and to facilitate theory development

Preparing for Life in a Digital Age Julian Fraillon,John Ainley,Wolfram Schulz,Tim Friedman,Eveline Gebhardt,2014-12-13 Ability to use information and communication technologies ICT is an imperative for effective participation in today s digital age Schools worldwide are responding to the need to provide young people with that ability But how effective are they in this regard The IEA International Computer and Information Literacy Study ICILS responded to this question by studying the extent to which young people have developed computer and information literacy CIL which is defined as the ability to use computers to investigate create and communicate with others at home school the workplace and in society The study was conducted under the auspices of the International Association for the Evaluation of Educational Achievement IEA and builds on a series of earlier IEA studies focusing on ICT in education Data were gathered from almost 60 000 Grade 8 students in more than 3 300 schools from 21 education systems This information was augmented by data from almost 35 000 teachers in those schools and by contextual data collected from school ICT coordinators school principals and the ICILS national research centers The IEA ICILS team systematically investigated differences among the participating countries in students

CIL outcomes how participating countries were providing CIL related education and how confident teachers were in using ICT in their pedagogical practice The team also explored differences within and across countries with respect to relationships between CIL education outcomes and student characteristics and school contexts In general the study findings presented in this international report challenge the notion of young people as digital natives with a self developed capacity to use digital technology The large variations in CIL proficiency within and across the ICILS countries suggest it is naive to expect young people to develop CIL in the absence of coherent learning programs Findings also indicate that system and school level planning needs to focus on increasing teacher expertise in using ICT for pedagogical purposes if such programs are to have the desired effect The report furthermore presents an empirically derived scale and description of CIL learning that educational stakeholders can reference when deliberating about CIL education and use to monitor change in CIL over time
