Solaris Rising Peter F. Hamilton, 2011-10-25 Solaris Rising is the first in an exciting new series of anthologies that are set to reaffirm Solaris's proud reputation for producing high quality science fiction. Featuring all original short stories from many best-selling authors such as Peter F. Hamilton, Alastair Reynolds, Stephen Baxter, Paul di Filippo, Adam Roberts, Lavie Tidhar, Ian Watson, Ken MacLeod, Mike Resnick, Tricia Sullivan, Eric Brown, Steve Rasnic Tem, along with other top name authors, stories guaranteed to surprise, thrill, and delight, demonstrating why science fiction remains the most innovative, satisfying, and downright exciting genre of all. Historical Dictionary of Science Fiction Literature Brian Stableford, 2004-04-19 This reference tracks the development of speculative fiction influenced by the advancement of science and the idea of progress from the eighteenth century to the present day. The major authors and publications of the genre and significant subgenres are covered. Additionally, there are entries on fields of science and technology which have been particularly prolific in provoking such speculation. The list of acronyms and abbreviations, the chronology covering the literature from the 1700s through the present, the introductory essay, and the dictionary entries provide science fiction novices and enthusiasts as well as serious writers and critics with a wonderful foundation for understanding the realm of science fiction literature. The extensive bibliography that includes books, journals, fanzines, and websites demonstrates that science fiction literature commands a massive following. The Writers Directory, 2013 I Am Taurus Stephen Palmer, 2024-02-23 The constellation we know as Taurus goes all the way back to cave paintings of aurochs at Lascaux. In I Am Taurus, author Stephen Palmer traces the story of the bull in the sky, starting from that point 19,000 years ago, a journey through the history of what has become known as the sacred bull. Each of the eleven sections is written from the perspective of the mythical Taurus, from the beginning at Lascaux to Mesopotamia, Ancient Egypt, Greece, Spain, and elsewhere. This is not just a history of the bull, but also an attempt to see ourselves through the eyes of the bull, illustrating our pre-literate use of myth, how the advent of writing and the urban revolution changed our view of ourselves, and how even the most modern of rituals, bullfighting in Spain, is a variation on the ancient sacrifice of the sacred bull. Muezzinland Stephen Palmer, 2002-10 Two sisters on the run, the elder chased by the younger, both pursued by their mother. But when this mother is the Empress of Ghana, and one of the most powerful people in the world, it is no ordinary chase. And life has changed in the mid-twenty-second century. The aether is a telepathic cyberspace. Biochips augment human brains. AI's concepts, even symbols, can be dangerous. Mnada is heir to the Ghanaian throne, yet something has been done to her brain that has made her insane, something to send her fleeing north across jungle and desert towards the mysterious place called Muezzinland. Nshalla is relegated to the status of puppet, ignored yet also part of her mother's plan. She follows her sister's flight, determined to discover the truth behind Muezzinland. Gmoulaye is a tribal woman, herbalist, fighter, woman of aether lore. She is the faithful companion, forced to question her identity as the chase continues. And the Empress herself, possessing the most modern
