Humanitarian Intervention and the AU-ECOWAS Intervention Treaties Under International Law John-Mark Iyi, 2016-01-22

The book reconciles the conflicts and legal ambiguities between African Union and ECOWAS law on the use of force on the one hand and the UN Charter and international law on the other hand. In view of questions relating to African Union and UN relationship in the maintenance of international peace and security in Africa in recent years, the book examines the legal issues involved and how they can be resolved. By explaining the legal theory underpinning the validity of the AU ECOWAS laws, the work provides a legal basis for the adoption of the AU ECOWAS laws as the frameworks for the implementation of the R2P in Africa.

Striking Power Jeremy Rabkin, John Yoo, 2017-09-12. Threats to international peace and security include the proliferation of weapons of mass destruction, rogue nations and international terrorism. The United States must respond to these challenges to its national security and to world stability by embracing new military technologies such as drones, autonomous robots and cyber weapons. These weapons can provide more precise, less destructive means to coerce opponents to stop WMD proliferation, clamp down on terrorism or end humanitarian disasters. Efforts to constrain new military technologies are not only doomed but dangerous. Most weapons in themselves are not good or evil; their morality turns on the motives and purposes for the war itself. These new weapons can send a strong message without cause, death or severe personal injury and as a result can make war less rather than more destructive.

Regional Maintenance of Peace and Security under International Law Dace Winther, 2013-10-30. This book explores the scope and limits of what is appropriate for regional action in the maintenance of peace and security. It offers a comparative study of legal regulation of the use of force in the maintenance of peace and security of different security regions in the context of the UN system and general international law. The book examines the post-Cold War legal documents and practice of the regional organizations of six security regions of the world: Africa, Asia, the Americas, the Middle East, the Russian sphere of influence and the Euro-Atlantic region and in doing so offers a unique international and comparative perspective towards regional characteristics that may influence the possibility for coherent action in a UN context. Dace Winther explores the controversial topics of regional humanitarian intervention and robust regional peacekeeping without a UN mandate, what is regarded as appropriate for regional action in different security regions of the world and if the approaches of the regions differ, what factors could have an influence. The book is highly relevant in a global climate where regional mechanisms take an ever more active part in the maintenance of international peace and security, including the use of force. The book will be of great interest to students and academics of International Law, International Relations and Security Studies.

Africa and the Responsibility to Protect Dan Kuwali, Frans Viljoen, 2013-11-26. Situations of serious or massive violations of human rights are no longer purely of domestic concern and sovereignty can no longer be an absolute shield for repressive governments in such circumstances. Based on this realization, the international community has recognized a responsibility to protect individuals in states where their governments are unable or unwilling to provide protection against the most serious violations. However so far only one intergovernmental organization the African Union AU has explicitly made the right to intervene in a Member State part of its foundational text in Article 4 h of its Constitutive Act. Although there have been cases of Article 4 h type interventions in Africa the AU Assembly has not yet invoked Article 4 h explicitly. This book brings together experts in the field to explore the potential application of Article 4 h and the complexities that may explain its non invocation so far. Although Article 4 h is noble in purpose its implementation faces several legal and policy challenges given that the use of force penetrates the principles of state sovereignty and non intervention the very cornerstones upon which the AU is founded. This book considers these issues as well as the need to reconcile Article 4 h in so far as it allows the AU to exercise military intervention to protect populations at risk of mass atrocities with the provisions of the Charter of the United Nations. Drawing from the insights of law political science diplomacy and military strategy the book offers a unique combination of multi disciplinary expertise that harnesses the views of a diverse group of authors focused on the legal policy and practical insights on the implementation of Article 4 h and the responsibility to protect in Africa in order to provide concrete recommendations on how to end mass atrocities on the continent.

Hybrid and Internationalised Criminal Tribunals Sarah Williams, 2012-04-02

In recent years a number of criminal tribunals have been established to investigate prosecute and try individuals accused of serious violations of international humanitarian law and international human rights law. These tribunals have been described as hybrid or internationalised tribunals as their structure and applicable law consist of both international and national elements. Six such tribunals are currently in operation: the Special Court for Sierra Leone, the Extraordinary Chambers in the Courts of Cambodia, the International Judges and Prosecutors Programme in Kosovo, the War Crimes Chamber for Bosnia and Herzegovina, the Iraqi High Tribunal and the Special Tribunal for Lebanon. The Special Panels for Serious Crimes in East Timor suspended operation in May 2005 although there continues to be some international involvement in investigation and prosecution of serious crimes. Suggestions have also been made that this model of tribunal would be appropriate for the prosecution of atrocities committed in among others Burundi, the Sudan, the Democratic Republic of Congo, Kenya and Liberia as well as for a wider range of international crimes, most recently piracy. The key aims of this book are to place the model of hybrid and internationalised tribunals in the context of other mechanisms to try international crimes, to examine the increasing demand for the establishment of hybrid and internationalised judicial institutions and the factors driving such demand, to define the category of hybrid and internationalised tribunals by examining the key features of the existing and proposed hybrid or internationalised tribunals as well as the features of those institutions with international elements that are generally excluded from this category, to determine the legal and jurisdictional bases of existing hybrid and internationalised tribunals, to analyse how the legal and jurisdictional basis of a tribunal affects other issues such as the applicable law, the application of amnesties and immunities and the relationship of the tribunal with the host state, third states national courts and other international criminal tribunals The book concentrates on the definitional legal and jurisdictional aspects of hybrid and internationalised criminal tribunals as this has been the subject of some confusion in arguments before the tribunals and in the judgments of the tribunals In its concluding section the book examines the future role of internationalised and hybrid criminal tribunals particularly in light of the establishment of the ICC and the potential use of such tribunals in other contexts It also assesses how hybrid and internationalised tribunals fit into a multi layered framework of international criminal law and transitional justice Index to Legal Periodicals & Books ,2002 Current
