foregrounding literature's potential to act as supplementary to a very wide variety of laws spread over historical geographical cultural and spatial grounds. The theoretical ground laid here thus posits both literature and law in the narrow sense. The articles gathered in this special issue analyse Anglophone literatures from the Renaissance to the present day and cover the three major genres: narrative, drama and poetry. The contributions address questions of the law's psychoanalytic, subconscious, copyright and censorship, literary negotiations of colonial and post-colonial territorial laws, the European refugee debate and migration narratives, fictional debates on climate change, contemporary feminist drama and classic 19th century legal narratives. This volume includes two insightful analyses of poetic texts with a special focus on the fact that poetry has often been neglected within the field of law and literature research.
