insecurity Results show that increases in the gross domestic product GDP per capita are concurrent with declines in individual food insecurity However income inequality increases the likelihood of food insecurity and where there is economic growth it undercuts the positive effect of economic growth on individual food security The findings suggest that by tackling income inequality economic growth can become a force for reducing food insecurity especially in low and middle income countries This paper was prepared as background paper for The State of Food Security and Nutrition in the World 2019

Porto Rico's Case, Outcome of American Sovereignty, 1898-24, 1925-28 Arnold Guyot Dana,1928 Causes and Consequences of Income Inequality Ms.Era Dabla-Norris,Ms.Kalpna Kochhar,Mrs.Nujin Suphaphiphat,Mr.Frantisek Ricka,Ms.Evridiki Tsounta,2015-06-15 This paper analyzes the extent of income inequality from a global perspective its drivers and what to do about it The drivers of inequality vary widely amongst countries with some common drivers being the skill premium associated with technical change and globalization weakening protection for labor and lack of financial inclusion in developing countries We find that increasing the income share of the poor and the middle class actually increases growth while a rising income share of the top 20 percent results in lower growth that is when the rich get richer benefits do not trickle down This suggests that policies need to be country specific but should focus on raising the income share of the poor and ensuring there is no hollowing out of the middle class To tackle inequality financial inclusion is imperative in emerging and developing countries while in advanced economies policies should focus on raising human capital and skills and making tax systems more progressive

Social Determinants of Women's Health in Low and Middle Income Countries Rubeena Zakar, Parveen Ali, Gaurang Baxi, Sarosh Iqbal, 2024-11-11 It is well established that the social determinants of health SDH highly influence health outcomes and inequities This is particularly true in low and middle income countries where women are deprived of their basic rights including access to health services appropriate nutrition and education Socio cultural practices such as child marriages forced marriages cousin marriages female genital mutilation and son preference undermine women health and well being Additionally various negative stereotypes such as pregnancy and childbirth related taboos dowry and honor related violence restrictions on women's mobility and social participation are significantly associated with women's health status To improve women's sexual and reproductive health societies must take comprehensive and integrated measures to address these cultural stereotypes and harmful sociocultural practices against women A SDH approach dictates that health is shaped importantly by various individual factors and community norms that further enable or constrain health Individual factors include education income ethnicity and the environment wherein people live including their families communities and workplace Macro level social factors include the labor market schools healthcare systems legal systems institutionalized practices and ideologies In many low and middle income countries women are still socially excluded and economically marginalized They lack opportunities for education economic growth and political participation There are many social drivers associated with maternal health Many negative life experiences such as infertility and perinatal loss poverty discrimination social inequalities lack of autonomy violence economic dependency and isolation have long lasting impact on mothers mental health and wellbeing To comprehensively understand the drive of maternal health a multilevel and bio social approach of social determinants of women's health is integral
